SILVER IN THE BAST

The Tidal Wave Has Broken Across the Allegheny Mountains.

AN ORGANIZER IN PHILADELPHIA

He Says That the Prospects There Are Excellent.

JAP'S VIEW OF BIMETALLISM

Europe Cannot Compete with His Country n Its Trade with China on the Single Gold Standard.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 23.-(Special.)-George E. Bowen, secretary of the Chicago Bimetallic League, arrived in this city today and is stopping at the Bingham louse. Mr. Bowen is one of the leading spostles of free coinage and is delegated by the western silverites to disseminate their gospel in the financially benighted east. He represents "Coin's Financial School," a pamphlet that looks like a novel, which is, he says, the textbook and guide of all advocates of free and unlimited coinage.

After alluding to the effort to perforate the gold barriers in the east with the silver auger of the west. Mr. Bowen said tonight: "The torrent of free silver sentiment has broken over the Allegheny mountains, and is spreading steadily over this section of the country in a wave that no combination or goldbugs or moneyed interests can possibly check or turn aside. The silver question is now squarely before the people and open to discussion. They are giving it serious attention in the money centers like Philadelphia and New York and Boston. The conservatism of these places is gradually disappearing before the liberal and anxious spirit of investigation, which indicates that the silver cause, as represented by its advocates, is not without foundation and merit.

"So far as Philadelphia is concerned, I can only judge by the demand for our literature, especially for 'Coin's' work, of which 400,000 copies have been distributed in various parts of the country. This shows that the banking and business interests, not only here, but elsewhere, are deeply concerned in this great question of money, which will undoubtedly form the leading issue of the next presidential campaign, and this leads me to speak of candidates. There will be a split in the democratic and republican conventions and the balance of power will fall to the free silver men. No man whose record on the money question is not clear since 1873 will receive their indorsement. So far as Senator Cameron concerned, I think his name would carweight in the east. I know stands all right on the money question. Ex-Congressman Sibley, who is the choice of National Bimetallic League for president, is a great favorite, and I think the western men will appreciate the necessity of nominating a man who does not live in the west The press and goldbugs of the east claim that free silver means silver metallism, whereas the bimetallism of the Wall street and Cleveland type means a single gold standard, but the real bimetallism indorsed by the central, western and southern states, calls for the use of all the gold and silver combined that can be pro-

Mr Rowen said that he intends to form bimetallic clubs and that he expects to organize a large one in Philadelphia.

A SILVER CLUB FOR MONTGOMERY. One Will Be Established There with a Large Membership.

Montgomery, Ala., April 23.—(Special.)— It is announced that a silver club will be organized here immediately after the city election here early in next month. A prominent silverite has been feeling the pulse of the public and is disposed to think that a club of six or seven hundred members can be organized here in the very hot bed of the Alabama goldbugs.

It is a fact, however, that many of the best friends of silver here are opposed to the club movement. Many think that a club will not have the effect of helping the cause of silver in Alabama. Of course, it is proposed to organize and keep the club strictly within the ranks of the democratic party, but many bimetallists here believe that a very large majority of the voters of Alabama are friendly to the white metal already and think that the burden of keeping up political agitation should be thrown on the shoulders of the

Straightout Populists Carried Things Their Way in the Committee

Des Moines, Ia., April 23,-General Weaver and the advocates of a combination of all the free silver forces in the coming campaign were beaten at the populist central committee today, and the straightout populists are jubilant tonight. State Chairman R. N. Scott presided and nine of the eleven members were present. Des Moines June 11th, were chosen as the place and date of the state convention without con-

When it came to choosing a temporary chairman Rev. G. H. Boshor, of Waterloo, the democratic-populist candidate for congress in the third district last fall was put forward by the Weaver crowd, and C. A. Lloyd, of Muscatine, by those who de sire to stand on the entire populist plat-form. Lloyd was chosen by a vote of 5 to 4. General Weaver and Mr. Boshor declared tonight that the fight would be carried into the state convention, and Chairman Scott, who is opposed to them, announced that the straighout populists were ready

It is officially announced that it is not intended to determine a line of party policy or to forestall the action of the state conventi nevertheless, it was known that the conference was called with the hope of securing harmony of action in the coming conver tion, especially with respect to the silver question. Bimetallism the Remedy.

Paris, April 23.—The Journal des Debats publishes a report of an interview with Mr. Sone Arasuke, Japanese minister to France, upon the results of the Chino-Japanese war. The minister declared that European trade would be unable to withstand the conjection of Japan. This, however, he said, was purely a pecuniary question and could be modified in accordance with the adoption by European countries of the biractal. tion, by European countries, of the bimetal lic standard, or the retention of the existing standard. Japan, he said, does not project any conquests. Her one ambition is to adthe trade and industries of the country she has recently acquired. The fear of Spain that Japan will encroach upon the Philippine islands, the minister said, is groundless. Japan is perfectly satisfied with the possession of Formosa.

GOLDBUGS TO MAKE A FIGHT. Will Try To Capture the Chicago Delegation. Chicago, April 23.—A systematic effort will be made by the Honest Money League, recently organized in this state, to capture the Cook county delegates to the state convention which is to define the position of the state democracy on the mone tary question. At a meeting of the executive committee of the league held at the Palmer house yesterday, it was the general sentiment that a contest with that object in view should be made at the pri maries to select delegates, which is to be held May 3d.

It is likely that at a meeting of the committee next Wednesday it will be decided to place "honest money" delegates in the field in every ward. An elaborate plan of education will form an important part of the campaign against the free coinage movement. Mass meetings will be held throughout the city and the state will be flooded with "honest money" litera ture within the next ten days. A declara-tion in favor of "honest money" which is being circulated in the city among demo has already received a large num-

KOHLSAAT'S OFFER TO ECKELS. A Large Salary To Go to Chicago, but It Was Declined.

Washington, April 23 .- J. H. Kohlsaat, the new owner of The Chicago Times Herald, offered Mr. Eckels, the comptroller of the treasury, a large salary, said to be nearly $10,000 a year, to go to Chicago and become financial editor of that paper. In view of the importance of financial questions in business circles and politics, Mr. Eckels saw in this editorship an opportunity to wield great influence in the west, and was at first much inclined to accept Mr. Kohlsaat's generous offer. On consultation, however, with other members of the administration, he deemed it his duty to remain in his present office until the expiration of Mr. Cleveland's term, and wired his determination this afternoon.

THE FIGHT IN TEXAS. Anti-Silver Men Hold a Meeting at

Austin. Austin, Tex., April 23.—About fifty members of the Texas legislature, who are opposed to the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, had an informal meeting tonight to arrange plans for a mass meeting tomorrow night. It was decided to begin an active campaign against the silverites and at the meeting tomorrow to issue a prochamation to the people of Texas to rally to the support of Cleveland and the democratic party on the financial question.

At the meeting of the silverites last night it was decided that no one but 16 to 1 silverites should be run for office in the next state election. One object of tonight's meeting was to have some conservative arguments advanced with a view of har-monizing the democrats in Texas who are about to split on the silver question.

IT STILL DRAGS.*

Governor Turney's Lawyer Continues the Plea for Him.

Naish ville, Tenn., April 23.—(Special.)— The subcommittee on governor's election has concluded the consideration of evidence in Davidson county and throwed out ninety-five votes. The whole commit-tee tonight heard the continuation of Colo-nel Vertree's argument. He insisted that if the investigation was not full it was the fault of the contestee, as the com-mittee had investigated all charges that were specific, as the law required they should be. He argued that the committee had been impartial and Turney had also suffered because the committee refused to investigate general charges made as to Campbell, Anderson, Morgan and Scott counties, where 7,403 votes were cast, and of these 3,364 were liable to, but had not paid poll taxes. He argued to sustain the democratic position that voting was political privilege and not a natural right and could be regulated. All the necessary qualifications must be compiled with to make a voter legal, and if one were ing it was not necessary to inquire if a voter possessed the others. The laws in Tennessee were not severe, but were in accord with the laws of other states.

COLONEL GLENN IN WASHINGTON. He Makes an Arrangement in Regard to His Cases.

Washington, April 23.—(Special.)—Colonel W. C. Glenn, of Atlanta, succeeded today in entering into an agreement with the attorney general by which, through walv ing some legal formalities, the whole question as to whether his clients, Quarles and Butler, shall be entitled to a writ of habeas corpus, shall be decided when court passes on the motions for leave to file petitions for such a writ. By this arrangement the matter will be greatly ex-pedited and it is believed a decision is insured at this term of the supreme court.

Bombardment Is Not Expected-England Will Probably Collect the Indemnity in a Peaceable Way.

New York, April 23 .- A Herald special cable from Managua, Nicaragua, says that Corinto advices state that an English fleet entered that port yesterday which consisted of the Royal Arthur, the White Swan and the Satellite. The fact that they left Panama under sealed orders caused much speculation about their destimation. The government has taken no steps nor arrived at any plan of action in the case of blockade or bombardment.

As far as can be learned, the Eritish government did not take the United States officials into its confidence as to its in tention to send its entire available Pacific squadron to Corinto at this juncture. Both the state and navy departments declare that they have received no official confirmation of the movement of the British vessels, although it was well known that the British ships, under Rear Admiral Henry F. Stephenson, met at Panama, two weeks ago, the Satellite, which had been there some time, being joined by the flagship Royal Arthur, which had spent the winter in Chilean waters, and by the Wild Swan from Callao.

The Wild Swan is a sloop or 1,130 tons, in all respects like the United States steamer Alert. The Satellite is a third-rate cruiser, somewhat smaller than the United States steamship Montgomery, and the Royal Arthur is like the Columbia and Minneapolis in dimensions and armament, but inferior to them in speed. Of American vessels on the Pacific available for possible emergency in Nicaraguan waters, the Alert is at Panama, the Ranger at Buena Ventura, Mexico, and the Monterey at Acapulco, where she stopped yesterday to coal for her voyage to Callao. probably now remain at Acapulco for ders. if necessary Notwithstanding the presence of three English war vessels in the harbor of Corinto, it is regarded as unlikely that any overt action will be taken by the commanding officer because of Nicaragua's failure to comply with Great Britain's ultimatum. The state department was advised several weeks ago that while the English government determined that the indemnity to pro-Consul Hatch should be paid, their efforts to collect it would not go to the extent of bombarding any of Nicaragua's coast cities The proposition has been advanced that the customs duties at Corinto will be collected by Great Britain until they equal the amount of the indemnity claimed-$75,000. COUNTESS RUSSELL'S SUIT

To Be Restored to Her Conjugal Rights-Argument of Her Counsel. London, April 23.—The trial of the action of Countess Russell, seeking restitution of her conjugal rights, of which she was deprived by a previous action for divorce against her husband, Earl Russell, was re-sumed this morning. Testimony in the case having been finished, counsel for the countess began his address to the jury. He argued that the lady was entitled to ask for maintenance as in her conduct in insisting that charges against her husband should be cleared up, she had been per-fectly sincere and actuated by motives of good faith.

Sir Henry James, on behalf of Earl Russell, contended that the countess was per-sonally answerable for the foul suggestions made against her husband's character, and, therefore; not entitled to immunity from the consequences of her acts upon the ground that she had been ill advised. Counsel for Earl Russell said it was obvious that the countess was guilty of blackmail in having written to her husband that she had in her possession sworn af-fidavits attesting his guilt of the offenses charged against him. This was a menace and obviously intended to force the earl to terms. The proceedings were adjourned.

SHORT FULLY $60,000

Neatly Trapped by Bank Examiner Miller, Who Caught On.

HOLLAND HAD HIS BOOKS DOCTORED

The Examiner Thought There Was a Mistake and Went Off.

THIS FOOLED CASHIER HOLLAND

Supposing That the Examination Was Complete and That He Was Safe, He Returned a Loan Too Soon.

Charlotte, N. C., April 23.-Cashler J. R. Holland, of the Merchants and Farmers' National bank of Charlotte, is a defaulter to the amount of $60,000 or more. Bank Examiner Miller has been here for several days and says he will remain for at least two weeks longer. It was he who discovered the defalcation. Mr. Holland's peculations have been carried on for eight years past and he has managed till the last few days to hide them from discovery. The exact amount of them is not yet fully known. No man in Charlotte has in the past been held in higher regard or been more fully trusted than Mr. Holland, and the whole city was greatly surprised and shocked to hear of his embezzlement. He has not yet been placed under arrest, at the request of the directors of the bank, he agreeing to waive all examination in case proceedings are begun against him. He has never made the slightest effort to escape.

Week before last the bank examiner, Mr. Miller, stopped at Gastonia, on his way to Charlotte. He examined the national bank there thoroughly and knew every bank with which it had an account or money loaned. He found that bank in good condition and came on to Charlotte. The first day he spent at the Merchants and Farmers' bank he discovered, on looking over Cashier Holland's books where he had a loan of $5,000 marked to the Gastonia bank He called Mr. Holland up and asked if that was correct. Mr. Holland replied that it was. Mr. Miller made a mental note of the fact. He next proceeded to look over the cash. He found it short just one dollar. That was easily accounted for and paid in. That night Mr. Miller left. No one asked where he was going, it being supposed that he was through with his examination and had gone elsewhere on the same errand. He had gone, but to return. He took the 10:40 o'clock train for Gastonia, -rung Mr.

Jenkins, the president of the bank, up and told him he wanted to look over his books again. Mr. Jenkins wondered what was up, but said little. He and Mr. Miller spent the night going through the books loan of $5,000 to the Merchants and Farmers' bank was found. Mr. Miller said:

"You have louned the Merchants and Farmers' bank of Charlotte $5,000, of which there is no record?"

"No," said Mr. Jenkins, "I have not."
That was the beginning of the end. Mr. Miller said nothing more, but came back to Charlotte the next day. He appeared at the Merchants and Farmers' bank and said to Mr. Holland that he might have made a mistake in counting the cash the day before and believed he would count it again. Instead of unding it only $1 short he found it $16,000 short. Mr. Holland, as was custom, had borrowed $16,000 to put to his cash while the examiner was here, thinking he had finished and departed and that he was safe at least for another year, he withdrew the $16,000 and returned it to the party from whom he had borrowed. Seeing that all was lost, he confessed to President McAden that he was a defaulter, and the sad story of his fall became known. The Merchants and Farmers' bank is fund to cover all losses.

BORDEN SKIPPED OUT.

He Acknowledged His Shortage to the Directors. Fall River, Mass., April 23.—Thomas S. Borden, agent and treasurer of the Metacomet and Anawan mills, has fled from the city. He is short in his accounts to the extent of $6,000, and warrants for his arrest have been issued. He is a man about forty-five years of age, about five feet ten inches tall, weighs probably 180 pounds, has a black moustache and sharp black eyes. He is a son of Philip D. Borden, agent and treasurer of the American liner mills, and has been in charge of the mills named, for a number of years.

The shortage became known to his direc tors yesterday morning, and they placed the matter in the hands of counsel. Com-plaints were drawn up, but when they were ready for service at 4 o'clock Borden had skipped. He left on the 1:20 o'clock train, and probably went to Boston. He lated in cotton some years ago and lost $11,000. At that time the directors accepted a note, and he has since bee it off. It is said that he had cleared up the old debt, and the new one, amounting to the sum stated, is an additional loan taken from the mill's fund. It is re-ported that Borden himself made the shortage known at the directors' meeting held vesterday. His resignation was determ ed upon some hours before that time. The loss was made good to stockholders by a note said to have been drawn by his father and other friends. Since his first trouble he has been watched very closely. His salary has never been very large, as the mills are old and employ only about mills are old and employ only about hands, the weekly pay roll being less

BUCHANAN GETS A WEEK'S RESPITE Through His Wife's Plending with Governor Morton.

Albany, N. Y., April 23.—Dr. Buchanan's wife and Mrs. Coleman, of New York city, waited upon Governor Morton at the executive chamber at 10 o'clock this morning. Mrs. Buchanan made an earnest plea for the life of her husband, who was to be electrocuted at Sing Sing Wednesday for poisoning his first wife. They were with the governor in the large reception room for nearly an hour and all visitors were refused admittance, for the first time in rears.

The governor at first said he could not interfere, but Mrs. Buchanan's pleadings were so pathetic that he finally granted a s respite, principally to give the con-ed man time in which to prepare for

Cook left in the special prison car which is lined with sheet iron and the windows are heavily barri-caded. In the special car were nineteen other prisoners for the penitentiary at Albany. Among them were Enoch Thomas, James and Ed Keeton, who got ten years each for manslaughter; Henry Buffington, a cousin of Cherokee Bill; Thomas Mowell, who, with Jim French and John H. Beck, a Cherokee attorney, was convicted of work-ing fraudulent certificates of Cherokee citizenship just before the payment last year. The others were cattle and horse thieves and whisky peodlers.

DURANT LOOKS HAGGARD.

The Murderer Seems To Be Indifferent. Students on the Stand.

San Francisco, Cal., April 23.—When the examination of Durant was resumed this morning, the police court was crowded to suffocation. Hundreds were unable to get in. The accused man looked haggard and worn, but throughout the proceedings preserved his usual indifference. Miss Williamson, who created the scene at yesterday's session, applied for admission this morning but her request was refused. Three medical students, mamed, respectively, Par-tridge, Dukes and Dodge, were the wit-nesses first called today, but their testimony was unimportant.

SECRETARY OF STATE CENSURED. The Florida House of Representatives

Goes for Him Severely. Tallahassee, Fla., April 23.—(Special.)— Some time ago The St. Louis Post-Dispatch sent out inquiries to various state officers asking if the statute books of the several states contained laws against lobbying. One of these inquiries reached Hon. John L. Crawford, secretary of state of Florida. Instead of answering the question as asked he replied: "The lobby controls the legislature of Florida." This was published in The Post-Dispatch of April 9th, but seems did not meet the attention of members of the legislature now in session until very recently. This serious condemnation of the lawmakers of the "Alligator State" aroused the wrath of the house yesterday. Speeches severely denouncing this statement were made and action was demanded refuting the serious reflection upon the lower house.

After an animated discussion, a committee was appointed to report on the matter

Resolutions condemning as untrue the statement of the secretary of state were reported unanimously by that committee and at 11 o'clock were brought before the house upon the question of adoption. Friends of the aged secretary of state claimed that his letter to The Post-Dispatch was written before the assembly of the present body. This was not proven, though his friends asked a suspension of action until this statement could be veri-fied by a telegram from St. Louis explaining. Members of the special committee thought that time enough had been given the secretary and up to this morning he had not furnished an explanation.

Upon the call of the previous question, the house adopted the resolution by a vote of 34 to 20 and the lower house places on its journal a severe censure of the state secretary.

LAST WEEK'S RAIN

No Material Injury to the Crops Reported to the Bureau.

EVERYTHING POINTS TO A GCOD YEAR

A Slight Frost Fell in the Northern Part of the State-No Damage, However, Is Reported.

The third crop bulletin of the season is issued from the weather bureau this morn-

On account of the heavy rains that have fallen during the last few days the crops have been retarded in some parts of the state but the effect is only slight. A mild frost in the northern part of the state has caused a slight injury to the crops in that section, but the damage is not sufficient to cause any serious complaint among the farmers. The showing, on the whole, is a good one and the report of Mr. Hunt, the di-rector of the state weather bureau service, will be read with much interest.

Here is the full report:

"The general rains of the first of the week while as a rule beneficial, interrupted planting, and were followed by several very cool nights, which if not actually injurious, retarded the growth of all vegetation, and gave many fields of young corn a yellow, stunted appearance. Light frosts occurred in the northern portions of the state on the nights of the 18th, 19th, 20th and 21st, but it is not believed that any damage will result, crops being too backward to be seriously injured, and the foliage of fruit trees having attained sufficient growth to protect the young fruit. The weather of the last half of the week was very favorable for all farm work, and vegetation of every description; grass is high enough for grazing purposes in all portions of the state, and both woods and fields, under the influence of the warmth and sunshine of the past three days, show remarkable growth. Upland corn is generally up to a stand; in the low or bottom lands planting still continues. Very little cotton has yet been planted in the north, northwest and central sections, while in the southern portions of the state, planting is nearing completion and the crop is coming up to a stand. Wheat and spring oats are growing well. Fall oats are a failure, and will not be again alluded to in these bulletins, Fruit prospects continue excellent, and an immense crop seems assured. Here is the full report:

Northwest Section.

"Owing to the general rains which fell during the first part of the week, very little farm work was done in the northwest counties of the state until Thursday. On that day the weather took a more favorable turn, and corn and cotton planting has been pushed with a vim. Upland corn is most all planted, but very little of it has as yet appeared above the ground. Wheat, clover and oats are looking fairly well. The latter crop, it is thought, will be smaller than usual. The last half of the week being warm and sunshiny, all kinds of vegetation took on new life, and gar dens are growing nicely. A full crop of fruit seems to be an assured fact. The hallstorm which visited this section on the 16th did no appreciable damage.

North Section.

"In the north section heavy rains fell on the 16th, 17th and 18th. The first part of the week the ground was too wet for plowing and planting and the nights too cool for the rapid advancement of crops. Frosts occurred on the 19th, 20th and 21st, but were too light to do any damage. Hail fell in some localities on the 16th and 17th, some report the damage slight, others heavy. The corn on the uplands is up and ready to be worked. Planting continues on the lowlands. But a small portion of the cotton crop has been planted, some are preparing the ground and others are planting. Wheat and spring oats are improving and promise a fair crop. Melons are planted and some are up. Irish potatoes are up, and sweet potatoes are coming up slowly. Gardens while late are fine. Some complain of the peach blossoms shedding badly, but the fruit prospect still continues excellent. North Section.

Northeast Section.

"In this part of the state the weather has generally been favorable for the growth of crops, but heavy rains during the early part of the week rendered the soil too wet for plowing. Cotten planting has progressed rapidly and about one-half of the crop is now in the ground, while prospects are that the entire crop will be planted by the end of the month. Wheat is improving; spring oats look unusually fine, and grass in pastures is abundant. Early planted corn, in most favored localities, is coming up with a good stand, and some is ready for working over for the first time. The condition of fruit and gardens continues to be excellent and prospects are favorable for an abundant yield of all kinds of vegetables and fruits.

"During the past week most farmers have been busy planting cotton, but the operation has been somewhat retarded by the heavy rains of the first few days. Corn is coming up rapidly and some farmers report it all above ground in their vicinity. Wheat is in a badly damaged condition, and from present indications will not make a full crop. Oats which were sown last fall are a total failure, but spring oats, although late, are unusually healthy and give promise of a fine yield. Sugarcane is quite late. There has been no deterioration either in fruit or vegetables and the yields will no doubt be large. West Section. fruit or vegetable doubt be large.

Central Section.

"The weather in the central portion has, on the whole, during the past week been favorable for farm work, but the nights have been a little too cool for the rapid germination of the seed in the ground. The rains of the fore part of the week, although stopping the plows, helped all young crops, especially melons, the rain softening the crust on the hills, giving the plants a chance to come up. Corn is generally planted, and where it is up the stands are, as a rule, good. Sugarcane and sorghum are being planted more extensively than usual. Irish potatoes are doing well, and a large crop is planted. There is some complaint of sweet potatoes rotting in the beds. Small grains looking only fairly well. All fruit from the peach to the strawberry promises a bountiful crop. Farmers are generally behind with their cotton planting.

East Section. "In the east section the rains of the 18th and 17th were beneficial in most localities. The frosts of the 18th and 19th did no damage. The corn is nearly all up, and but little replanting was needed. Part of the cotton is up, but is not looking very well. Some of the early planting has been necessary. Melon plants are growing nicely. Rice and cane are doing well. Gardens good and trees loaded with young feuit.

"Reporters state that the weather conditions have generally been favorable for the farmers and their crops. Cotton planting is now far advanced and in some localities a small portion is already up. Corr. is all up, and many planters are already working it over. During the coming week this operation will occupy the greater portion of the farmers' time. Rye is in excellent condition. Spring oats are starting to run up good and indications are that there will be an average yield. Sweet potatoes are being set out and there will be a large acreage. Sugar cahe is growing-rapidly. Ground peas have about all been planted. Some complaints are made that melon plants are dying and it is feared the melon crop will not be as large as usual.

"The farmers of southern Georgia have taken advantage of the favorable weather during the past week; as a result cotton and corn pianting is about completed, and planters geaerally have their work well in hand. The ground, however, has not warmed up sufficiently to bring up cotton quickly. With very few exceptions planting is about over, and the majority report a good stand of corn and watermelons. Quite a number of the corn and cotton fields are ready for their first working. Irish potatoes, though late, are very fine. Oats are looking nicely, but the crop will be small. Gardens are prospering and in good condition. The fruit crop promises to be immense especially peaches. Peas, however, will not yield so well as quite a little olight is reported in this crop.

ons fell in the southeast section on 16th and 17th. The week has been a too cool for all kinds of vegetation those plants that are up are looking sickly. Nearly all planting has been finished. The corn is up, and the early planting is being plowed. Some fields are a poor stand and some localities report the plant as being injured by cut worms. The cotton crop is nearly all planted, but very little is up. Gardens are generally poor. The fruit crop is the only one that is in first-class condition.

A NEW REFRIGERATOR.

it Is for Sale by the Hunnicutt & Bellingrath Company.

One of the best of recent inventions is the Hygienic Refrigerator.

This refrigerator is called hygienic because it is built according to scientific laws of refrigeration. In it are embodied features that were never before applied to refrigerators for domestic use, and which make it, as all experts agree who have seen it, the most perfect article of the kind ever placed before the public. Servants have no excuse for not keeping the Hygienic Refrigerator always clean and sweet.

All kinds of food can be kept exposed in it, with no danger of one kind tainting another. Though only in the market about two years, the Hygienic Refrigerators have been introduced into many households where they have given perfect satisfaction.

holds where they have given perfect satisfaction.

The Hygienic Refrigerators are the only refrigerators in the market that can be kept absolutely clean. The removable separated compartments when seen prove this to be a fact. There are in each refrigerator from three to six (according to size) compartments that are entirely separate, have individual doors and no communication with each other. This latter is invaluable for many reasons—one of which is that the air contained in one compartment cannot enter another and carry with it the odor of any food, however pungent, to taint more delicate foods. Absolute cleanliness.

This feature has been emphasized in the Hygienic. All the compartments being removable, they can be cleansed as easily as the lightest and simplest kitchen utensil.

Perfect insulation.

as the lightest and simplest kitchen utensil.

Perfect insulation.

Ice will last in the Hygienic almost twice as long as in any other refrigerator and at same time give better results. One of the best proofs of this is that instead of requiring from twelve to twenty-four hours to cool after the ice is placed in it, the temperature of the Hygienic can be reduced 25 degrees in one hour, and the refrigerator be ready for service in that time. The interior once cooled, the ice does not perceptibly meit. The Hygienic has a perfect and certain circulation. The body, covers and doors are made of one of the most wonderful non-conductors ever known, "woodnoid." The walls are of one solid thickness.

The body of the Hygienic not coming in contact with food or ice is practically indestructible.

As warm weather is now with us, any one expecting to purchase a refrigerator would also well to investigate the most'ts.

WANT A CO-RECEIVER

President Johnson Desires To Be Appointed by Judge Speer.

A WOMAN SHOUTS FOR JOY IN COURT

Upon the Announcement of Her Sen's Ac-Quittal She Startles the Audience by Her Wild Shrieks.

Macon, Ga., April 23 .- (Special.) -Fleming luBignon and State Senator Osborn, of Savannah, have made application to Judge Speer for the appointment of President Johnston, of the City and Suburban street railway of Savannah, as a co-re-ceiver of the property. Last Friday Judge Speer appointed Colonel John T. Screven, of Savannah, receiver, on the application of Judge H. E. W. Palmer, of Atlanta, as attorney for Jane W. McReynolds, of Glen-

Today was set as the time for hearing the question of a co-receiver, but as Mr. duBignon was forced to be absent from Macon Judge Speer postponed the hearing till tomorrow. Judge Palmer, Colonel Scre-ven and Senator Osborn are in the city. General A. R. Lawton is also here as Attorney for Receiver Screven. He opposes the appointment of a co-receiver. One of the grounds of objection to the appointment of President Johnston is that he inment of President Johnston is that he insists that he has no authority to turn the power plant over to the receiver as it is not the property of the city and suburban, while the attorney for the receiver holds that by order of the court the receiver is given charge of the power house as well as of all other property of the road, he holding that the power plant and electric holding that the power plant and electri-cal equipment are in fact a part of the property of the railway. There is likely to be an interesting contention on this

Is Dr. Roberts Crazy.

Application will be made to Ordinary Wiley tomorrow by relatives of Dr. J. B. Wiley tomorrow by relatives of Dr. J. B. Roberts for his trial on a writ of lunacy. Dr. Roberts is still confined in the Bibb county jail serving sentence imposed on him by Judge Speer for irregularities in his management of the Sandersville postoffice while postmaster. Dr. Roberts's alleged connection with the escape of Tom Allen and four other prisoners from the Bibb county jail and his alleged recent attempt at suicide, are fresh in the recollection of the public. The grand jury of Bibb county recently found a true bill sgainst Dr. Roberts for aiding in the escape of the prisoners from jail.

She Was Very Happy.

An unusual scene occurred in the United States court this morning when the jury brought in a verdict of "not guilty" in the case of Lewis Williams, colored, charged with stealing mail sacks from The Macon Telegraph. As soon as the words "not guilty" were read out, the mother of Williams, who was in court, commenced to shriek at the top of her voice, jump up and down on the floor and clap her hands. She seemed to have a regular attack of church shouting. Her sudden outbreak startled all in the crowded courtroom. She was simply wild with joy over the release of her son. She rushed out of the room, into the corridor, down the steps and into the street shrieking and shouting. She had no fear of the judge or the marshal. She appeared oblivious to everything except that her son was free. She Was Very Happy.

The Council Meeting.

The city council met tonight. In the absence of chairman Findlay, Alderman Sperry was chosen chairman pro tem. Fifty dollars was appropriated to help defray the expenses of Chief of Police Butner to the national convention of chiefs at Washington in May. The council declined to approve the recommendation of the mayor to cut off five men from the fire department. It also refused to approve the mayor's recommendation to cut off four men from the police department, but the suspension of each patrolman for fifteen days will continue in operation. Alderman Van's ordinance to impose a license of $100 per annum on dealers in second-hand shoes was passed. Newsy Notes.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Willingham, Miss Bertha Willingham and a number of other Maconites will attend the Saptist convention at Washington.

The juries in the United States court were dismisses today. The criminal docket is closed for the term.

This afternoon Colonel W. R. Phillips withdrew as a candidate for county commissioner. This leaves the race tomorrow to Walter Nelson, Joe McGee and Pomp Hill.

At Volunteers' target practice today Phil McCail won the prize, making eleven out of a possible fifteen. Captain Reese won the leather medal. The company presented an elegant set of silver to Treasurer Wrigley for his faithful and efficient services.

THE DAY IN GRIFFIN.

Arrangements Completed for Memorial Exercises.

Griffin, Ga., April 23.-(Special.)-Colonel F. H. Richardson, of The Atlanta Evening Journal has accepted the invitation of the Ladies' Memorial Association to deliver the address on Friday next. Quite an elaborate programme na been arranged for the occasion. The mili tary, Masons, Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias and other organizations of the city will take part. Captain D. J. Bailey has been appointed marshal for the day and will by assisted in his duties by an emcient corps of lieutenants. The exercises will take up the greater portion of the after-

Walter Waites, who was wanted here for an unsettled fine imposed by the city court for gambling, was brought down from Atlanta yesterday and now reposes in the Spalding county jail awaiting a settlement of his case. Logether with others, he was fined and released upon a promise to get up the money and pay his fine. Instead, he skipped out, and has been at large until Saturday, when he was arrested in Atlanta. Robert L. Hobbs, who had been a resident of this city over sixty years, died yesterday at his home in West Griffin. He had passed his eightieth birthday but a few weeks. He leaves but one child.

W. J. Kincaid returned yesterday from an extended tour of Florida. He expresses himself as abundantly satisfied with the result of the recent election. He promises that the new addition to the Griffin mills will be begun at the earliest possible date, while the new machinery for the old part of the plant will be put in as rapidly as possible. All the plans for the buildings are in, and it will not be long until bids will be asked for. All the new issue of stock will be taken by the present stockholders, so that the mill when completed will be built absolutely by home capital.

H. C. Burr, grand master of the grand chapter of Georgia, left last night for Macon to attend the meeting of the grand council of the Masonic fraternity, which is to be held there next week.

Colonel and Mrs. J. W. Kincaid returned yesterday from a two weeks' trip to Florida. Mrs. Kincaid remained in Apalachicola, where she will visit friends for several days.

Colonel G. Gunby Jordan was in the city for a short while last night on his way home from Atlanta. Mrs. A. E. Hill, who has been visiting in Atlanta for several days, returned home last night. Colonel J. M. Mobley, of Hamilton, is spending a few days with his daughter, Mrs. J. M. Kimbrough, at Experiment. Sam B. Webb, of Atlanta, spent yesterday in the city on business.

Messrs. L. Patterson and L. O. Niles were the guests of their friends in Atlanta yesterday Miss Pollie Cunningham went down to Macon yesterday for a visit of several days. The city tax assessors will finish their labors today, and it is their opinion that Griffin will hold its own as compared to last year, and has possibly done a little better. They have not yet ascertained the aggregate and compared figures, but when that is done it is probable that but little change was be made.

The Attempt Was Successful.

Cartersville, Ga., April 23.—(Special.)—Burkett, the man who cut his throat and was afterwards found on the depot platform, died here this morning at about 9 o'clock. His remains were carried to Nelson, Ga., for interment. His wife came over in response to a telegram, and was with him when he died.

RACE TROUBLE IS ON

Blacks at Bolingbroke Threaten To Ba Revenged Upon Officers.

SHERIFF NEWTON ARMS A POSSE

An Attack Feared During the Night-In the Morning a Desperate Negro Was Killed.

Fcrsyth, Ga., April 23 .- (Special.)-A warrant from Macon for the arrest of a negro desperado named Jim Simmons, charged with shooting at another, was placed in the hands of Mr. Wiley Cole, of Bolingbroke, to serve today.

Recognizing the desperate character of the negro, Mr. Cole summoned a posse of four men to assist in the capture.

Simmens was soon found and ordered to surrender. This he violently refused to do, and presenting a pistol at the heads of the officers, defied them to advance one step further.

Being warned of the consequences of his act, he grew still more desperate and defant and threatened the lives of the crowd. A pistol shot was heard and he fell dead on the spot.

The coroner will hold an inquest. At 8 o'clock to night Sheriff George Newton, with a posse of twenty armed men, left here tonight for Bolingbroke in response to a telegram that serious trouble is anticipated there with the negroes on account of the killing of Jim Simmons this morning. Intense excitement has prevailed all. day.

The negroes have held several secret meetings during the afternoon, and when an explanation was demanded by several citizens the blacks boldly asserted that they would wreak vengeance on the slayers of Simmons. The news spread with lightninglike rapidity, and preparations were immediately begun to protect the lives of Cole, Williams, Harrison and Searcy from the infuriated blacks at all hazards.

As night drew near, the excitement increased in intensity, and men heavily armed are repairing to the scene, and should any effort be made by the negroes to take the lives of the white men, a desperate battle would ensue. As several desperate negroes are leading the mob, it is not at all improbable that an attack will be made on the officers during the night or before day. The whites are on the alert, and if the ball is opened, they are ready for the fray. The indications are now that there will be serious trouble, but it may be that the large number of Winchesters will thwart the negroes in their intentions. Bolingbrook, Ga, April 24, 2 a. m.-Sheriff Newton is here with a strongly armed guard. There has been no attack by negroes and none is expected. Everything is

A KLEP CAUGHT IN AUGUSTA. She Turned Over Large Quantities of

Goods and Was Released. Augusta, Ga., April 23 .- (Special.) - Quite a sensation was developed in Augusta this afternoon by the discovery that a very respectable woman, who has been a guest at the Arlington hotel, has been persistently and systematically stealing from the dry goods, millinery and shoe stores of the city. Several stores have reported missing articles to the detectives, and they have been at work on the case for two weeks without a clew until last Sunday, when Mrs. Mary Rice, a milliner, recognized on the bonnet of a lady who sat before her in church, some of her missing

Mrs. Rice reported the fact to the detectives and described the lady. She was at last located at the Arlington hotel, where in three trunks in her room were found more than $1,000 worth of stolen goods. Among the articles lost by one of the stores was twenty yards of fine silk. When the detective pulled the sample from his vest pocket and matched it to the silk in her trunk, the woman broke down and con-fessed. Silk hosiery, gloves, lace, millinery, shoes and numerous articles of the kind had been stolen. There was nothing new in her method, and in a store where detec-tives are provided to look out for such thefts, she, no doubt, would have been promptly caught. She would buy some small article and while the clerk was wrapping it up or his attention was otherwise diverted, she would secrete articles under her cloak. This evening the things were placed on exhibition at police headquarters and representatives of nine dif-ferent stores identified their goods.

As all the missing property was recovered and as the woman is well known in Augusta, she was not placed under arrest. She has relatives here and formerly resided here. She has been twice married. As her husband and her relatives here are respectable people and as she leaves town tomorrow, her name is withheld from publication. There was some talk of trying her for lunacy, but it was decided to let her return unmolested to her husband and to write him the facts of her course here In order that he may guard against mortification in future. She is about thirty years old, has three children, and is still a pretty woman. She was a beautiful girl before her first marriage. She now resides

J. H. LEE SUICIDES.

He Was Doing a Good Business-No Cause Is Known.

Hawkinsville, Ga., April 23.—(Special.)— J. H. Lee, an old and highly esteemed citizen of this place, committed suicide this morning about 4 o'clock by shooting him self in the right temple with a pistol. The cause is not known. Lee had not been well for the last six months. He was suffering from Bright's disease. He was about fifty-seven years of age and was doing a very profitable fancy grocery business. He was down town last evening no worse than usual. He had been in Hawkins ville for the past twenty years. He leaves a sister and three grown children, Willie, Sam and Maggie. After shooting himself he lingered until 8:30 o'clock when the end came. Mr. Lee was not conscious after shooting himself. He had $1,000 insurance

ROBBED THE MAILS.

Such Is the Charge Made Against an Ex-Distributing Clerk. Savannah, Ga., April 23.—(Special.)—E. S. Palge, formerly distributing clerk in the postoffice here, was arrested today on a charge of embezzlement from the mails. He was given a preliminary trial this afternoon and turned over to the United States under bond. He is well known here, and the proceeding has caused much comment, especially on account of the fact that he was recently suspended because of a charge of conspiracy. It was reported to the department at Washington that he had been opening letters, and Inspector Bulla was detailed to work the matter up, the investigation resulting today in his arrest.

Verdict Against a Canal Company. H. A. Shuman was granted a verdict in the city court today of $1,425 against the Savannah and Ogeeches Caual Company, he having sued for damages on the ground that he had lost money through the com-pany's violations of its charter. Mr. Shu-man has a lumber mill near the mouth of the canal, about sixteen miles from the city, and he formerly used the canal in transporting his product. The banks of the canal were broken in 1888 by a storm and the company refused to repair them. Under its charter it is compelled as any other its charter it is compelled, as any other common carrier, to keep the canal in good condition, and, failing in this, Shuman pressed the suit for damages on this ground. The case will go to the supreme court.

ELEVEN OF THEM ARRESTED.

Ring Leaders in the Bethel Church Fight Put Under Arrest.

Augusta, Ga., April 23.—(Special.)—To-day Sheriff Alderman, of Alken county. arrested at Jackson station and carried to Alken eleven of the Green party that Irccipitated the fight at Bethel Methodist church Sunday afternoon. Those arrested were B. R. Green, Sr., B. R. Green, Jr., Frank M. Green, Jr., T. L. Foreman. Brantly Eubanks, Allen McLain, Glover McLain, Jack Tyler, Justice Frank M. Green, Dr. J. I. Green, and J. E. Stallings. They were released on bonds rangings. They were released or bonds ranging from $300 to $500 to appear Saturday for a preliminary hearing before Judge Weeks in Aiken. Bishop Williamson, a citizen of Augusta, is said to have been connected with the affair, and there is a warrant for his arrest if ever returns to South Carolina.

AX AND PISTOL.

Both Men Were Armed and Ready To

Do Murder. Gibson, Ga., April 23.—(Special.)—Jim Jones, colored, was brought to town this morning and tried before a justice for assaulting with an attempt to murder Harvey Davis, also colored. They were getting out crossites and began a quarrel, which came very near ending seriously for which came very near ending seriously for both. Davis held an ax and Jones a revolver. Both were thoroughly wrought up, but the timely interference of others stopped the trouble. Davis swore out the warrant, but Jones says one is as guilty as the other. Jones was jailed in default of

A BRUTAL HUSBAND'S ACT. With Only a Few Words of Notice He Shoots His Wife.

Hayneville, Ala., April 23.-(Special.)-News reached here this evening of a most atrocious murder in this county, near the Montgomery county line. The victim was Lou Gilchrist, wife of Philip Gilchrist. The facts in the case are about as follows: Lou had been in the habit of visiting relatives on the McPherson place in Montgomery county, and these visits had been the cause of repeated quarrels between herself and her husband. This morning about 8 o'clock as she was returning from the McPherson place, which is about two miles from her home, Philip met her in the road and in the presence of an eyewitness said:

"Lou, I have warned you my last time about going over there without my consent, and now you must die."

Without another word being said he pulled a pistol and shot her twice, once through the heart. She died instantly.

The sad news of the poisoning of Dr. D. S. Hoppings and family, of this county has just been received. Last night Mrs. Hoppings put strichnine in an egg, intending to put it in the henhouse for the purpose of killing a dog that had been in the habit of visiting the coop every night. This morning the cook without having any notice of the egg being doctored, and find-ing it on the shelf in the kitchen where Mrs. Hoppings had placed it, where it had been overlooked and forgotten, used it in making bread at breakfast. All the family ate of the bread and so did Miss Alice Rogers, a visitor, and Mr. Payne, a drug clerk for Dr. Hoppings. In a short time afterwards all the parties became deathly sick and on investigation the above facts were developed. Dr. Pritchett, of this place, was quickly summoned. At last acounts all parties were resting well. Dr. Hoppings, who is a very prominent physician in Lowndes county and chairman of the county board of health, is still suffering very much from the effects of the poison.

RECKLESS STONE THROWING.

The Watchman Fires and the Miscreant Runs Away.

Sycamore, Ala., April 23 .- (Special.)-Some one is keeping the night watchman the Sycamore mills, at this place, in constant terror by prowling around the outside of the factory fence and throwing stones through the glass windows. Sunday night several stones were thrown at the mill and at the watchman while on his regular rounds. Last night about 10 o'clock the company's engineer and watchman, while sitting in a window together, were suddenly aroused by some heavy missile striking the wall of the building in close proximity to their heads. The watchman made for the outside, pistol in hand, but before he could reach the open air two more stones were thrown into the engine room, shattering the glass.

The watchman discovered the culprit in the act of throwing the fourth time and raised his pistol and fired directly at him, but the bullet flew wide of the mark. The man ran away. Guards have been stationed around the mill. It is not known who is doing this or what the object is, but it is thought to be the work of a discharged employe.

READY FOR THE ROAD RACE.

Local Wheelmen Preparing for the Swift Run Friday.

The road race of the Pigott Cycle Company, which takes place Friday, April 26th, at 3:45 o'clock p. m., from corner Forest avenue and Peachtree, is the universal topic of conversation among the wheelmen at present.

A number of very handsome prizes have been got together and everything promises to be a big success.

Dr. Hale's Revival Services at the

Dr. Hale talked last night on "The Question of Today." After the services a great many requests for prayer were made and three were approved by the church for baptism. All are welcome.

Men with Silver Records Not Disposed To Go Back on Their Past-Mr. Smith States His Position.

No contribution to recent financial literature has created more talk than the press dispatch sent out from Washington Monday night and printed throughout the country yesterday morning to the effect that President Cleveland would instruct all the federal office holders in the various states to organize and take up the fight which he has begun against the free and unlimited coinage of silver.

The telegram stated that these officials would be the nucleuses for state organizations which are to wage war against silver on the lines laid down in the president's recent letter to the Chicago club. Postmasters, internal revenue officers, district attorneys, customs officers and innumerable contractors, numbering in all over 200,000, were to be the president's lieutenants in the war which he has declared. These officials would not only speak in their respective states, but would organize the movement.

The press dispatch, coming as it did with the stamp of the conservative press association, created much comment, and was general topic of discussion among the federal officials and those who interest themselves in the currency question.

Fror many indications, the press dispatch seems well authenticated. There is every reason to believe that the president will organize the money contest in every state, and that much of the organization will be accomplished by office holders. A gentleman who has just returned from Washington said last night:

"It is the president's fight, and he is going to wage it for all he and the machinery at his command are worth. The battle started a week ago Monday, when President Cleveland's gold letter was launched the country. Just before sending out letter he determined to make the his own. Joe James Hasn't Heard Anything. The story from Washington caused con-siderable of a stir in the government building. It was all the talk among the officials said the district attorney, with a smile, "I read the dispatch from Washington, and cannot believe there is anything in it. I have not received a word from the president instructing me to en-gage in the silver fight. All that I have received from Washington came from the attorney general, and was purely official."

District Attorney J. S. James stated that he had received no intimation from Washington as yet regarding the matter treated of in the press report.

"In case you should receive such instruc-tions from the president, how would you act upon them?" was asked. attorney smiled. "In political matters I always act in accordance with my own convictions," he said. "I have never yet received instructions from Washington as to how I shall act politically. I shall continue to act as I have in the past. "My views on this question are well I gave them from the stump reduring the last two years and reports of what I said were printed at the time. I believe in a larger use of silver and I think it can be done with safety. I would favor the free coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to I if I believed it could be kept on a parity with gold. That is the only question in my mind. I think the matter should be settled by international agreement. I discussed this question on the stump at various points in Georgia during the last two campaigns. I belong to the or-ganized democratic party and indorse its ganized democratic party and indorso its principles and platforms. I stand upon the national democratic platform adopted at Chicago and the state democratic plat-form of this state adopted at the last convention. I was a member of the commit-tee on platforms of the last state conven-tion. I can't see any good reason as a democrat why I should repudiate the principles set forth in either of the plat-forms. In my opinion these platforms con-tain the laws of our party until the representatives of our party shall meet representatives of our party shall and adopt a different set of principles.

the discharge of the duties of my office I never have been instructed or had the least intimation from the president or any other official of the sevenment as to what ytand I should take ornow I should act upon any question of a political nature. I do not believe the president has or will make any such demand, as above stated, on his appointees. So far as my connection with the administration is concerned the only requirement placed upon me has been to discharge faithfully the duties of the office assigned me. This I have endeavored to do to the best of my ability and feel gratified to believe that I have done so to the entire satisfaction of the department of justice."

Every Man To Suit Himself. Internal Revenue Collector Paul Tram-mell was seen in his office.

"Have you heard anything from Washington concerning the report published this morning?" he was asked.

"Nothing." said he. "I can't think that the president has decided to take such a step. I certainly have received nothing from him or from any public official instructing me to engage in the silver contest in this state. It has always been my impression that the president disapproved impression that the president disapproved office holders engaging in political fights of omce noncers engaging in pointent ignus and if I remember aright he had several to leave the stump last year."

"Should you receive such instructions, what then?" Mr. Trammell was asked.

"I don't expect any," he said, "but I suppose that every man will act as he bleeces it such a matter I shall I am pleases in such a matter. I shall. I am very busy now trying to complete the income tax returns so as to get them to Washington by May 1st.'

Mr. Dunlap Was Good Natured. "Haven't read it," said Marshal Dunlap laconically, when asked about the report. "I didn't have the to look over my paper this morning. What do I think of it? Well, you see my office is purely executive I am here to catch violators of the law and to execute the law-not to engage in politics. That's all I can say about it.

Mr. Fox Had Nothing to Say. Postmaster Amos Fox was asked if h had heard anything from Washington on the line suggested in the press report. He shock his head. "I have received nothing,"

"nothing. Beyond this he declined to discuss the matter.

SILVER WILL CARRY THE COUNTRY. Senator Dubois Sees a Possibility of Republican Defeat in 1896. Fred T. Dubols, United States senator from Idaho, is an unflinching advocate of the free coinage of silver. He is an Illinois man by birth and a republican by inheri-tance, being a son of Jesse K. Dubois, who was auditor of public accounts for the state of Illinois at the beginning of the civil war. Dubois' pere was an intimate friend of Abraham Lincoln and Richard Yates, Illinois' famous war governor, and was in his day one of the best known and most popular men in the state.

naturally greatly interested in Illinois, his native state, and he expressed himself freely yesterday at his rooms at the Great Northern hotel on President Cleveland's letter concerning the free coinage of silver, as well as on the call issued by the democratic state central commit-tee for a convention to consider the coinage question.

"Mr. Cleveland deals in platitudes and offers no suggestion which looks to an improvement of the wage earners and prooucers," he said to a reporter of The Chicago Times-Herald. "He repeats the stock phrase of 'sound money' a number of times. Everybody wants sound money. No honest or sensible person desires any other kind of money. Mr. Cleveland's idea of sound money, however, is gold and gold only. The silver men, so-called, of the dem-ocratic and republican parties are bimetal-lists. They demand that both gold and silver shall serve as the basis of our

"Mr. Cleveland and his school of financters are advocates and upholders of 'dis-honest money,' inasmuch as they contend for gold monometallism. Gold and silver constitute the honest money as well as the constitutional money of the United States. Any one who insists on the destruction of either is not in favor of honest money The genuine silver men, who make up the large number of both the national parties, do not desire silver monometallism, they do demand that we get away from gold monometallism, which the owners money throughout the world have fastened upon us. I am glad Mr. Cleveland has come out squarely for the gold standard. It simplifies matter. The people want more money, and they want good money. The safe way to get it is through the ration of silver. I have no doubt about the success of the silver cause. It is gaining ground every day, and the more the subject is discussed the stronger the

In speaking of the action of the Illinois democratic state central committee in calling a state convention to discuss the silver stion, Senator Dubois said:

"There is not a state in this whole se tion of the country in which the democrats and republicans also would not express themselves in favor of the free coinage of silver if they were given the opportunity. If the republican state central committee of Illinois should call such a convention it would commit itself for free silver. Ever since the demonetization of silver people have been struggling to have it restored. Promises of legislation to that end have been made, but the gold worshipers have defeated every effort to restore it to its rightful place. All money must be

"There is not enough gold to redeem the currency required by such a nation as the United States. Silver and gold together form a safe basis for currency. When they were both used as a basis there was plenty of good money. The value of the silver pro duct is about equal to that of the and when silver was struck down one-half of the money basis of the world was destroyed. As a consequence all values went down. Restore silver and the value of all products and of labor will rise. The demand for the redemption of $100,000,000 of reenbacks and outstanding mo tions would bankrupt the government to-

It was only 18 to 1 when silver was demonetized, and it was about the same when the Sherman act was What you add to the world's repealed. amount of money by the remonetizing of silver really affects the world's finances but little, yet it is of vast importance to the people of the United States. In conclusion I will frankly admit my belief that if the democratic party adopts a free silver plank with a strong candidate and the republican party does not the party will win a tremendous victory at the polls in 1896."

THE POWER OF SILVER.

F. G. Newlands Has Some Novel

New York, April 23.—(Special.)—Francis G. Newlands, member of congress from Nevada, has added a story to the history of the Japanese-Chinese war that is interest-ing. Mr. Newlands is at the Holland house. He is an ardent silver advocate, and his story is in support of the assertion that silver is the greatest of money metals. He said yesterday: "It was during the time that James G. Blaine was secretary of state, I received a letter from the state department, introducing to me a number of Japanese, compris a commission who were in this co investigate our money system. told me that an agent from England had been in Japan trying to get their govern-ment to demonetize silver. They talked with Senators Stewart, Jones, Teller, Sherman and others. They were warned not to think of allowing silver to be discarded as a money metal. The result of this investi-gation is that today Japan is the great pow-consulting England. A gold loan would have resulted, and England would have had Japan by the throat, even as she has us today. TO BEGIN TOMORROW

The Atlantas Will Be at Home to the Chattanoogas-There Will Ba a Street Parade and a Band.

The Southern Baseball Association season opens tomorrow and the indications are that the south will see some of the best baseball that has been seen in this section in a long time. The Atlantas will be at home on the pening day and the visiting team will be the Chattenoogas. There will be games in four of the eight towns of the association and the first day's work in the towns where there are win ners the mercury will go up, while in the towns where there are losers there will be a sinking of the mercury. The Atlanta management is making extensive preparations for the opening day and for the reception of the large delegation that will come down from Chattanooga with the team under Manager Whistler's leadership. The Chattanoogans are of the opinion that the team Manager Whistler has is a strong one and that it will give all the clubs in the association a close rub before the wind up comes. So great is the confidence of the people of that city in the team Whistler has that a arge delegation has decided to come to Atlanta to see the opening game and probably remain through the series.

The Chattanoogas will stop at the Mark. ham and will reach the city this after noon at 5 o'clock. The team, it is said makes a good appearance on the street as well as a good showing on the ball field. The team and the visitors will be received at the union depot by the Atlantas, under Manager Knowles, and by some of the directors of the Atlanta club and will be escorted to the Markham. Tomorrow there will be a street parade by the two clubs led by the Atlanta military band. The two clubs—the Atlantas and the Chattanoogas-will move around the streets in carriages and after making the circuit wil go to the grounds, reaching the park about 3 o'clock. Then while the teams are work-ing before the game the people who are out will be entertained by the band up to o'clock, when the game will start

The teams will line up tomorrow with the Chattanoogas in Atlanta, the Evansville in Nashville, the New Orleans in Montgomery and the Memphians in Little The interest in the game this season is greater than it has been in many years.

The National League has never had a more prosperous opening than that of this year, while in Virginia and Florida, where there are good teams, the enthusiasm is unbounded and the prospects are bright for a great season. The eyes of the baseball people generally are now centered on the Southern Association and the games that are played in this section will be watched with the greatest interest. The teams of the association are thought by good judges of ball to be pretty equally balanced and a hard, strong fight for the leadership is predicted. The race will be watched by predicted. The race will be watched by teams are made up of young unknown men and good men are now wanted. In fact, it is thought that the Southern Association will be a good garden for the big league to harvest from and the big eague men are consequently giving the osters of the clubs and the work of the

In sizing up the clubs one of the best posted men of the big league places the fight for the finish between Evansville, Nashville and Little Rock, taking the first two as the favorites. The same authority gives Atlanta and Montgomery a chance for second or third place, but asserts that either may win out in the long run in front of all the teams. The oracle declares that the teams are all equally sized ap and that either one may have a chance to win out. The favorites he picked are picked on what he construes the ability of the management and the reputation of some of the players on the team. In the Evansville and Nashville teams there are more old known players than on any of the other teams, and it is upon this that the dement of the oracle is based.

Manager Knowles, however, thinks he will give the oracle a chance to show that will give the oracle a chance to show that he might make a mistake when the end of the season is over.

Dan Daly, one of the best equipped athletes in the country, is in the city still and will make Atlanta his home for some time to come. Daly has secured the large hall on Marietta street over Snook's old store, and will open a training school there. He will put in all of the latest appliances used in training the boxer, the sprinter and the wrestler, and hopes to turn out some good men from the material he has enlisted. Since it has become known that Daly would open his school in the city quite a large number of pupils have been enrolled, some of them being among the best young men in the city.

J A DAY FOR THE TALENT. They Picked Five Out of Seven Winners at Memphis.

Memphis, Tenn., April 23.-Out of the seven races that were decided at Montgomery park this afternoon, the talent was successful in picking five of the winners. The biggest upset of the day occurred in the fourth race, in which four of the best sprinters in the west faced the starter. Potentate opened up at 8 to 5, but such a stream of money flowed into the ring on him that it was almost impossible to get a bet on him toward the close. Libertine was next in demand, while Maid Marian was unsupported at 10 to 1. Bergen got off in front with George F. Smith and staid there to the end, winning handliy by an open length. Potentate got second money by a head in a drive. Cash Day won the handicap easily, winning pulled up by three lengths. Nashville, Tenn., April 23.—Favorites had things, all their own way at Cumberland Park today, four of them landing the money. St. Maxim, in the Duncan Hotel handicap, was the only one who failed to reward his backers. The handicap was worth $1,500, and it went to Prime Minister, a well-played second choice. The talent was not hurt very badly. Prime Minister showed that he was a high-class inree-year-old, as he gave everything else three-year-old, as he gave everything else in the race weight but St. Maxim. A SKUNK FARM.

An Interesting Experiment To Be Tried in Shepherdtown, Md. From The Philadelphia Times.

Robert G. Miller is about to try an interesting and what he hopes will be a profitable experiment near Shepherdstown, W. Va. He has leased an acre of ground just north of Shepherdstown and will start skunk farming on an extensive scale. Mr. Miller has been dealing in skunk hides for several years past and has shipped as many as 500 from this place in a single season. He has concluded that it pay to raise them in an enclosure and kill off the increase on a rising market. There are several skunk farms in the United States—one in New Jersey, one in Ohio and another in Pennsylvania—and Mr. Miller has been in correspondence with their proprietors, concentrate the states. prietors concerning the business. As a result of this experience and advice he will start his operation with about fifty of the animals. He already has a number on hand and by the time he has his place prepared he expects to have a full supply of them. The skunk is not much of a climber, but is rather good at digging In building an enclosure, therefore, their habits in this resepct must be regarded. A fence of stout oak boards will be built three feet under ground; above ground is a twelve-inch plank, above which is two feet of wire netting; this is surmounted by another plank nailed fast to the tops of the posts and projecting on the inside. A fence three feet high does not seem much of a barrier, but it is said that the animals will not be able to get over it. It is not thought that there will be much danger of any one breaking in from the outside. Sheds will be built to serve as hiding places and protection from the weather.

The animals will be fed upon offal from the butcher shops and similar refuse Carrion suits them very well, but their reg-ular dlet is worms, larvae and insects. They feed usually at night time, remaining in hiding during the day. The female skunks bear two litters a year-in May and September-and there are from six twelve in each litter. The young attain full growth in about three months. The hides are salable only when taken in winter. The skunks are commonly black, but some have white spots or a broad white mark from the head to the tail along the neck. The black ones are most valuable, their hides selling from $1 to $1.75 each. There is little demand for the spotted skins, which sell as low as 18 cents. By constantly killing off the spotted animals the "flock" will in time breed to jet black Mr. Miller sells the hides in New York to manufacturing furriers, who make them up into various articles of feminine wear. The demand for good pelts is constant.

The trappers who are now catching the skunks to stock the farm use steel traps. They need no bait but place the trap at the entrance to the den of the animals, the plan being to catch them by the foot as they come out. It is not an entirely sant job to transfer the odoriferous little beast from the trap to the bag, for it is not, naturally, in an amiable frame of mind after having been held in those cruel steel jaws for several hours. One has to be careful to escape being bitten. No amount of care, however, will avail against the effective weapon of defense that nature has provided the skunk with. The outcome of the new industry is awaited with some anxiety by the people of the neighborhood. They hope to see financial success, provided there is no serious change in the sweet breezes that blow from the north. There is some fear that the skung farm may become embarrassingmanifest. Mr. Miller says that there need be no fear, however. The skunk can readily be tamed and kept as a pet. It only uses its nauseous artillery when rude-ly disturbed. There are many erroneous impressions concerning the beast. It commonly believed that it distributes the vile-smelling fluid by whisking it about with its tall. This is not the case. The fluid is carried in anal pouches and is discharged by muscular contraction. It can be projected a distance of from eight to twelve feet. The smell, homever, is carried

Whether Mr. Miller will make a fortune by this queer venture or whether the Shepherdstown folks will get mad and iump the whole farm over the cliffs into the Potomac river is an open question,

ONCE THE WHITE HOUSE QUEEN. Andrew Johnson's Daughter Now Lives in Greenville, Tenn.

From The Memphis Commercial-Appeal. A stranger who might chance to spend a few hours in the town of Greenville, Tenn., would undoubtedly consider it a very pretty, pleasant little mountain town, but he would probable he mountain town, out he would probably be surprised to learn that a lady who was formerly mistress of white house was living in it.

If his attention was called to a low, slop-ing-roofed, two-story brick house, the front door of which opens directly out upon the pavement of the street, he would consider it a neat, old-fashioned southern residence, but he would doubtless be astonished to learn that it was formerly the family residence of Andrew Johnson, and that its pres-ent occupant is Mrs. Martha Johnson Paterson, President Johnson's only surviving daughter.

Mrs. Patterson is a pleasant-faced, mildmannered little lady, very slight in figure and somewhat stooped, but with a great deal of gentle dignity in her bearing. Her parlor was formerly her father's private apartment, but the bed and other furniture apartment, but the bed and other furniture that he used are now in her own room. Numerous oil paintings of her father, done by the best artists of his time, hang on the walls of various rooms, while a room upstairs is specially set apart for his library. Mrs. Patterson was the oldest child of Andrew Johnson and Eliza McCordle Johnson, and was born October 25, 1828, in Greenville. Her father was at that time not Her father was at that time twenty years old, and was still working at his trade as a tailor. She was married in 1857 to David Patterson, then a p

"There is an epidemic of tired feelings at this time of the year."

The speaker was a prominent man.
"This weather is very exhausting," he added, "and even the strongest people feel its debilitating effects.

"There are few men or women who do not get up in the morning with a sense of exhaustion and a desire for more rest. This," he said, "shows that the system is in a low condition and needs stimulating. To overcome this weary condition I know of nothing better than the use of a pure whisky, because it quickers the blood whisky, because it quickers the tand purifies the body as nothing else and purifies the body as nothing else can do."

It should be remembered, however, that there is only one pure whisky recommended by physicians, and that is Duffy's Pure Mait. It is unlike all other whiskies, being entirely free from impurities and adulterants. That is why it is universally prescribed for medical use. It is healthful, because it stimulates without depressing, aids digestion and imparts fresh vitality. Generally and more beneficial, however, it soothes and rests and brings consoling quiet to the routine of life.

house expenditures than any of her predecessors had done. Naturally enough, with the war just closing, and the awful tragedy of a presidential assassination just enacted, she found the white house in such a state of confusion and disorder as it had never een before and has never seen since.

When she left she gave to her successor an itemized account of every article belong ing there, even down to the number and kind of the very napkins for the tables.

"I thought," Mrs. Patterson remarked to me, in the pleasantest, most courteous of tones, "that as our country was impoverished and in debt at the time, is was my duty to make the white house expenditures as light as I could possibly could. Many of my friends, and many public officials advised me to have the whole house refurnished from beginning to end, but I would not consent to it. In company with a kind government official, I went through every room in the house, had every carpet taken up and examined, and inspected every article of furniture to see if my country might not be saved a few dollars of unnecessary When my first official dinner was given I inquired as to what it would cost to entertain thirty-six guests, and was told that it could not possibly be done for less than $500. After it was over, I examined all the bills, and found that the dinner could be given just as sumptuously for only $250, and afterward it cost the govern-ment only that sum. I did this, not from any hope of reward for myself, but simply that my country's money might be saved "What I pride myself in," she continued is that while I was in the white house, any man, woman or child, rich or poor, black or white, who was in Washington and sent me his card at any hour after $ o'clock in the morning on any day of the week, was allowed to see through the whole house. Since then, I have applied for ad-mission and was informed that only the east room was open for inspection, except

Mrs. Patterson's only daughter, Martha, married a Mr. Landstreet of Maryland. She was a beautiful and exceedingly lovable woman, but died in California recently of consumption, at the age of thirty-two. A little daughter of hers, Martha Landstreet, is now seven years old, and is the light of Mrs. Patterson's home. She attends the kindergarten at Greenville, and is a very sweet and winsome little girl. Mrs. Pat-terson had two sons, the older of whom is now dead. The younger, Andrew Johnson Patterson, has recently been appointed to a consulship in South America.

OLD GEORGIA.

Brunswick Times: The settlement of the old soldiers' colony in Montgomery county, as noted in Friday's Times-Advertiser, is the most significant industrial event that has occurred in Georgia since the building of the Western and Adantic, the Georgia and the Central railways. It is the axiomatic tide which, taken at its flood, will send Georgia bounding beyond the shedows matic tide which, taken at its flood, will send Georgia bounding beyond the shadows of doubt into the glorious realization of a magnificent development, undreamt of in the philosophy of the wildest enthusiast. This means within the next two years a city of five thousand people, surrounded by the modern attendants of a cultivated and prosperous community, gleaming church spires, elegant school buildings, public halis, electric lights, waterworks and curling smoke from the furnaces of hunchurch spires, elegant school buildings, public halls, electric lights, waterworks and curling smoke from the furnaces of hundreds of plants throbbing with the life and motion of mechanism which gives bread to honest toilers. It means the felling of 100,000 acres of virgin pine that will be sawn into building timbers to house a population of thirty thousand people with added allegiance and wealth effort to the prosperity of Georgia, and the denuded land thereof heaving with a newly inspired seed of plant life, blossoming into an ecstasy of beauty and ripening into the fullness of money enticing fruitage—the transformation of a weird, gloomy sobbing of pines into the lighted stage of cheery homes, ornamental profusion and happy humanity. But the real significance of this transaction is in the fact that of 50,000 shares of stock in this enterprise Georgia was voted the place for the settlement by a hundred votes to one, and the further fact that every member of the committee appointed to seek the new home location gave Georgia the enthusiastic preference of judgment:

Macon Telegraph: Small factories, diversified industries and gradual development should be the first aim of those who would build up this or any other city of its size. Small industries bring more small industries. The success of the first makes the second necessary, unless it is independent, and even if it is independent, its success encourages the establishment of others of a like character. This rule has been proved true in all towns, both little and big. A small factory brings another small factory, and in most cases a big enterprise brings another big enterprise, and so on.

The board further decided that a building was necessary to present the diversity of the state in the general display. As the interest in this exposition is world-wide, and as it will be attended by almost countless throngs of visitors, many of whom will come for the express purpose of investigating the resources of the south, with a view to invest or locate somewhere within its borders, it will be apparen that no such opportunity has ever before been presented of exhibiting to the world the magnitude and attractiveness of the south's advantages for both capital and to Alabama this opportunity appeals with greater force than to any othe state in the south, from the fact that no other state has such wonderfully varied and magnificently endowed resources. In truth no other state has greater variety of products or such wealth of resources as has Alabama, and we owe it to our-selves and to posterity to demonstrate this fact to the world by a proper exhibit at Atlanta. With such an exhibit a portion of that with such an exhibit a portion of that tide of capital and immigration that is coming southward will be irresistibly attracted to Alabama and the state will receive in return even a thousand fold on the outlay entailed.

This appeal is, therefore, made to the citizens of the state without regard to class or condition for contributions to a fund sufficient to erect an Alabama build-ing and place an Alabama exhibit therein. All should do something, for all are to reap the benefits that will accrue from it. reap the benefits that will accrue from it. None should be willing to be beneficiaries at the hands of their neighbors, but all should generously decide to do his or her share in this enterprise to advance the material prosperity of Alabama.

STRENGTHENING PETITIONS.

Alabama's Governor Requires That Signatures Should Be Sworn To. Montgomery, Ala., April 23.-(Special.)-

Governor Oates has officially announced that hereafter no petition will be given executive consideration that is not in the nature of an affidavit or that does not specify that the signers have signed it under oath. The governor has long ago concluded that something of this sort was asmuch as frequent instances etc., to the governor without their having any knowledge whatever of their contents. Very recently a very large petition, signed by a 'arge number of most reputable citiwas presented to the governor, askthe pardon of a notorious criminal who had escaped from jail and who had not served a day of his well-deserved sen-

this connection a rather remarkable retition that was presented to Governor Jones two years ago is recalled. It was just before the legislature adjourned. A substantial and reliable member in whom all of the members had implicit confidence determined to test the value of a petition He wrote a volumenous one with a long preamble—too long for the average man to thirk of reading. The effect of the peti-ticn was that the speaker and the clerk be hanged on the last day of the session. There were never two more popular officers than Speaker Pettus and Clerk Massie Wilson, and yet almost all the members of the house of representatives signed the petition in all seriousness because they had confidence in the man who asked them to sign, and it was handed to the governor for his consideration.

Alabama in Brief. Mobile, Ala., April 23 .- (Special.)-Yes-Mobile, Ala., April 23.—(Special.)—Testerday, while its parents were at church, the sixteen-months'-old infant of Mr. and Mrs. E. LIKE EXILES TO SIBERIA. John Manley Tells of His Escape from a Mexican Prison Mine.

Houston, Tex., April 23.-John H. Manley, otive engineer, who recently es caped from the coal mines about eight mile from Monterey, Mex., is in the city. He said today:

I was born in Lexington, Ky., where my father was well known. Years ago I went to Mexico as an engineer, and ran out of the City of Mexico on the International road. About seven years ago we backed out of a sidetrack, about twenty-five miles from the city, and ran over and killed a Mexican peon. When our train arrived at the next station it was stopped, and our crew was arrested and taken to the city There we remained two days in prison and were refused intercourse with friends We were then taken to mine No. 9, near twenty or thirty Americans there. could get no communication with the outside world, and many a vain plot I laid to escape. The guards used to smuggle liquor to the mines and we watched them. One night last January our guard drank too much and fell asleep, I took a chunk of coal and smashed in his head and then summoned my companions, Billy Hughes, my fireman; Billy Clark, the conductor, and Frank Godkin and Billy Stillwell, the brakemen, who were with me. When we got to the top we slipped up behind an-other guard, knocked him in the head and then dropped his body to the bottom of the shaft, 222 feet. AN ITALIAN SWINDLE.

Hundreds of Boxes of Oranges with Only One Layer in Each.

New York, April 23.-Receivers of oranges than usual of late by the receipt at port of goods that suggest the gold-brick swindle. When frost ruined the Florida crop, dealers turned to Sicily as a source of supply. The Sicilians had lost hold on this market by the growth of the Florida trade, and the chance that the call on that quarter for fruit early in the season would not be repeated, seems to have impressed Ferdinanda Ferrall, of Palermo, that he might as well make a clean sweep at once. It is the practice of receivers to place credits in foreign banks in the fruit importing season and to let shippers draw on those credits on their invoices. Shippers usually get $1 a box on these drafts, any balance being payable after delivery.

E. I. Goodsell, of 103 Park Place, placed abroad a credit of $2,000. The bank that had it paid Ferrall $700 on papers showing the shipment of 700 boxes of oranges and lemons. When the goods arrived they were found to consist of a single layer of inferior oranges or lemons in each box, the remaining space sand and sulphur. Freight, duty, insurance and commission amounted to $1.70 per pox. This fruit was not worth the freight, and Mr. Goodsell abandoned it to the govern-

About four thousand boxes of this kind of stuff have been brought to various re-ceivers in the city during the past week. The Italian chamber of commerce has taken up the grievance of the victimized mer-chants, and has asked the government to take such action as may punish the swindlers, even if it may not recover the money lost, and which shall prevent repetitions of shipments which can only work serious damage to Italian trade.

REV. S. S. SWEET DEAD

He Expired Suddenly at the Hotel St. -- s. New York.

HE WAS IN HIS WAY TO EUROPE

For Years He Was a Member of the South Georgia Conference—His Brother-in-Law Died a Few Hours Belore.

Macon, Ga., April 23,-(Special.)-A telegram was received in Macon today announcing that Rev S. S. Sweet, of Macon, dropped dead at 9 o'clock this morning in his room at the St. Denis hotel, New York, Mr. Sweet left Macon last Wednesday to go to Carlsbad for the benefit of his health, and would have sailed for Europe tomorrow. His remains will reach Macon either tomorrow night or Thursday morning for interment.

Mr. Sweet was well known to journalism and the Methodist ministry in Georgia. He was a member of the South Georgia conference, but owing to ill health had not in recent years had a charge. He only preached occasionally. At one time he was news editor on The Savannah Morning News and The Macon Telegraph, and also traveled for those papers. He wrote many interesting letters under the 10m de plume of "Jack Plane." His last service plume of "Jack Plane." His last service was as librarian of the Macon public library, which position he resigned about a month ago on account of ill-health. Some years ago he was stricken with paralysis and never fully recovered. He went to Europe several times for his health and lerived some benefit from the travel. Sweet was born in Indiana about fifty-five years ago, and came to Georgia before the war. He was a Mason. The deceased had a cheerful and happy nature, and was well liked and esteemed by all who knew him. His life had been full of good deeds and he leaves a blessed memory.

Coincidence in Death. It was a coincidence that Pev. S. S. Sweet and Dr. J. W. Shinholser, of Bibb county, should have died within a few hours of each other. The deceased were brothers-in-law. Dr. Shinhois. d'ed last night at 10 o'clock and will be interred in Rose Hill cemetery tomorrow morning at Dr. Shinholser was a wellknown and respected citizen, and formerly resided in Rutland district.

Rev. Thomas Muse Is Dend. Cuthbert, Ga., April 23 .- (Special.)-Rev Thomas Muse, the pioneer Baptist preacher in this section of Georgia, and along with the Rev. Dr. A. G. Hillyer, of Atlanta. the oldest Baptist preacher in Georgia, died at the home of Mr. D. W. Hammock, at Coleman, this county, after an illness of several weeks. Rev. Dr. Muse was formerly a citizen of Cuthbert. During his long residence here he was a power for good in the community. It was largely through his earnest efforts and means that the Cuthbert Baptist church and the tist Female college, now the Bethel Male college, this city, were built. It is gen-erally conceded that he had received more members into the church, married and buried more people and done a greater labor of love than any Baptist preacher in this section of Georgia. He was well known not only in southwest Georgia but through the whole state. The funeral and memorial the whole state. The funeral and memorial services were held in the Baptist church, this city. Revs. J. S. Knowles and W. D. Hammock, of Coleman; Rev. E. Z. F. Golden, pastor of Cuthbert Baptist church; Dr. J. W. Stanford, of Cuthbert, and Rev. Dr. Nelson, of Macon, took part in the services. IS NOT SIGNIFICANT.

The Failure of the Supreme Court To Take Action on Income Tax Cases.

Washington, April 23 .- The failure of th supreme court yesterday to take any acthe income tax cases does not necessarily imply anything significant. Such matters, it is said by those most conversant with the proceedings of court, oftentimes remain nacted upon for two weeks or more. this case it may be said that the decision of the court is looked for next Monday, and there is nothing which has so far developed to change the opinion, expressed a week ago, that the petition for a re-hearing will be denied.

At the opening of the supreme court this rning Chief Justice Fuller made the fol-"The consideration of the two petition for a rehearing of the income tax cases is reserved until Monday, May 6th, when a full bench is expected; and, in that event, two counsel on a side will be heard at that hearing of the cases has been granted, that only on that date the court will hear counsel upon the question whether or not a rehearing shall be granted.

The announcement of the chief justice was made after an hour's consultation in the conference room, to which the justices were invited yesterday. It is assured that at this conference confidential assurances were given of Justice Jackson's intention to be present on the day named. That it certainly established that he will be pres ent is evident from the chif justice's manner of making the announcement "when full bench is expected."

An Unprecedented Action.

The action of the supreme court is un precedented in its history, since the practice with respect of petition for rehearing was established, and it illustrates the fact that the august tribunal does change its rules and regulations under varying conditions or in special cases. Years ago the court knew no such thing as a petition for rehearing. In 1863, in the case of Brown vs. Morgan, a motion was made to reform a decree of the court, which was in effect a petition for rehearing and on that occasion counsel was heard, Subsequently thereto, but infrequently, motions or petitions for rehearings occurred, but they were always frowned upon, and in 1869 the court established the law in relation thereto. This was in the case of Walker vs. the public schools of St. Louis. The court there said that "when the court of its own motion did not direct a rehearing its own motion and not direct a renearing of argument, it would be in order for counsel to present a petition therefor, without argument, together with a brief setting forth the grounds upon which the petition was asked." But it was not until 1884 that the rules of the court were changed to include petitions for rehearing.

As stated, it does not by any means follow that the petition for a rehearing will be granted after it has been argued. What impelled the court to order the declaration made by the chief justice yesterday is solely a matter of speculation. By some it is believed that the eight justices are divided equally on the controverted points in the law, and that Justice Jackson will have to determine their tutionality or unconstitutionality.

Justice Fuller stated after court med that he had received a letter Chief Justice adjourned that he had received a letter from Justice Jackson, in which the latter said he would try to come to Washington and listen to the argument upon the petition for rehearing of the cases. In petition for rehearing of the cases. In the last letter from Justice Jackson, received by friends in Washington a week or so ago, he said that he would not leave Nashville until in the fall

HE WAS SPIRITED AWAY.

A Sheriff Outwits a Mob in Maryland.

Baltimore, April 23 -An attempt was made at Frederick, Md., last night to lynch the negro who attempted a felonious assault on Mrs. Thomas Butts while she was returning home from church last Sun-day. The mob was foiled by Sheriff Zimmerman, who had removed Winterchief to a place of safety early in the evening. A midnight an organized mob, seventy-five men, gathered in the vicinity of the jail prepared to take the negro out and hang him. In addition to the there was another band of forty to serve sentinels. A rumor that Winterchief had been re moved reached the mob and the leader was sent ahead to learn if it was true. Sheriff Zimmerman invited the man enter the jail and inspect the cells, all of which wer standing open and the prison-ers walking in the corridors. The leader of the lynchers became fully satisfied that the bird had flown and went back to dis-perse his mob. He stated they had come fully determined to hang the prisoner and would have taken desperate measures to

To Perpetuate a Famous Name.

From The New York Press. I heard yesterday that the superior court of North Carolina had given to Minor Fair-fax Heiskell permission to change his name to Minor Heiskell Gouverneur, and the young man, who is general manager of the Wilmington trolley system, now signs him-self according to the new dispensation. For several years the immediate near relation of Heiskell have been urging him to this, in order to perpetuate the onored name of Gouverneur. His elder brother, Teackle Wallis Heiskell, named for the famous Baltimore lawyer, was expected to change his name to Gouverneur upon arriving at the age of twenty-one, but he died before attaining his majority, and now Minor adopts the name that has been extinct these eight years. It is proper that we should perpetuate the names of the grand old men who were part of the his-tory of this country. The last of the Gouverneurs, Samuel Lawrence Gouverneur, Jr., died in Washington eight years ago, leaving three daughters and no son. His father, Samuel, Sr., died in Frederick county Md. in 1868. We have several representatives of the old Gouverneur family here, using the name as a Christian name only; for instance, the Gouverneur Morrises, the Gouverneur Kortrights, the Gouverneur Bibbys and the Gouverneur Wilkinsons, There may be others, but I do not recall them just at this moment. The Lord seems to have provided that there shall be an everlasting perpetuation of Smith, Jones and Brown but civilization must take care of such names as Gouverneur. Great men cannot always count upon sons and heirs. The father of this newly fledged Gouverneur James Monroe Helskell, whose grandmother was the beautiful Elizabeth Kortright

ATLANTA, GA., April 24, 1895.

Crush It Out.

The general press dispatches announced yesterday that the forces representing Clevelandism are to be put in motion at once to do the dirty work of the gold sharks and money lenders of the east. The statement is made that the federal office holders of the country, numbering 200,000, are to be organized for the purpose of carrying on a campaign in behalf of gold monometallism.

The high officials are to go about the country peddling English financial views from the stump. The employes of the departments at Washington are to write letters. The federal officers in the various states are to be organized so as to form a nucleus around which those who are opposed to the restoration of silver may rally.

The dispatch announces that Mr. Cleveland is thoroughly in earnest against the free coinage of silver and that he will leave no stone unturned to prevent the people of the country from adopting this measure of relief and to fasten on them more securely the chains of the money power.

To this end he is willing to lay aside his ponderous pretensions as a civil service reformer, and organize the office holders into a compact mass in behalf of the greed of the gold sharks and money lenders of the east. For the first time in the history of the country the federal office holders are to be required, regardless of their own convictions, to use their influence in behalf of a scheme of private greed the most infamous in its purpose and the most criminal in its results that has ever been imposed on the people.

It is equally infamous that the very instruments whom the people have selected to carry out their will should have entered into a compact or combination with the gold plutocrats to perpetuate a system that was fraudulently and surreptitiously imposed on the people. It is equally criminal that the men who fill the people's offices should now be expected to enter into an active conspiracy to suppress public opinion or to mold it to suit the views of the man who occupies the white house.

Such a movement as this is the first practical step toward imperialism. The bureaucrats, the office holders and the gold plutocrats are to be welded together in one solid body to influence the voters. What is this but the beginning of a movement that in the end will defy the will of the people if that will cannot be controlled through the ordinary channels?

Mr. Cleveland was a very humble and virtuous citizen when he first made his appearance as a democratic candidate. Only the softest kind of butter would melt in his mouth. His whole nature was shocked and horrifled at the spectacle of federal office holders taking part in elections in behalf of the party they represented. His sensitive soul so revolted at the sight that he issued an order to the heads of departments, and in this order he managed to express himself with unusual clearness. "Office holders," he declared, "are the agents of the people, not their masters." "They have no right as office holders to dictate the political action of their party associates." "The influence of federal office holders should not be felt in the manipulation of political primary meetings and nominating conventions." "Proper regard for the proprieties and requirements of official place will also prevent their assuming the active conduct of political campaigns." These declarations were made on the 14th of July, 1886, and his letters, written during his first administration, swarm with similar expressions. But that was before he had figured as the attorney of leading gold sharks and before the brilliant beauty of the British gold standard had been unfolded before his enraptured eyes. Mr. Cleveland also remarked about that time that "public office Is a public trust." But according to the press dispatches he has come to the conclusion that a public office is held for the benefit of the international gold trust. We think it is about time for the people to open their eyes to the real aims and purposes of Clevelandism, Behind all the recent developments in Washington is to be seen the sinister intention to fasten permanently upon the people the disastrous conditions that have been brought about by the demonetization of silver. The office holders who were prevented from active participation in politics in behalf of their party principles are now to be compelled, under penalty of removal, to promote the interests of the money power. There are thousands of patriotic officials who, when the pinch comes, will refuse to permit the emoluments of office to weigh in the balance against their convictions. On the other hand there are many who will permit themselves to be made tools of.

But the attitude of the office holders is of no importance. The important thing is the attitude of the administration, which has sold the party out to the gold trust, and which is now taking steps to intimidate the honest voters of the country. Clevelandism is the shadow of imperialism and it will be well for the people if they understand this in time to put it down and crush it out.

Governor Northen's Work.

Governor W. J. Northen has just secured a large colony of northwestern people for settlement in this state. The Constitution has given details concerning this important enterprise, and we hope that nothing will be left undone on the part of all persons interested in the welfare of Georgia to make the undertaking successful.

We regret that some attempt has been made to throw doubt upon the titles to the land offered the colony by Governor Northen. This is a matter that can be very readily determined at the proper time. These northwestern people are too businesslike to go blindly into any enterprise, and Governor Northen is too honorable to engage in anything that is at all questionable. We have no doubt that the titles to the property offered by him to these colonists will be absolutely beyond dispute.

The bringing of 40,000 to 50,000 indus trious farmers, mechanics and business men into Georgia is a grand enterprise. It will create an interest in Georgia never known before, and will direct universal attention to our great resources and to the wonderful opportunities that this state offers to settlers and investors. We trust that no one will give heed to any suggestions as to the validity of titles to this property. We feel assured that they will be beyond cavil in every way.

This important work undertaken by our ex-governor should succeed, and we believe that every one interested in our state will stand ready to aid in its suc

The United States---Japan--England The interview with Hon. F. G. Newlands, member of congress from Nevada. published elsewhere in The Constitution today, is worth reading. The parallel drawn between Japan and the United States, the one independent of England and the other held in financial bondage

by the gold standard, offers food for very serious reflection by our people. Japan has just finished the task of routing the Chinese empire with its 400,000,000 people. The wonderful little nation which has accomplished this undertaking has by its dauntless courage and its marvelous capacity commanded the admiration of the world. Already Japan threatens the commercial supremacy of England in the orient, and Mr. Newlands's statement that "England any other nation on the earth," is no doubt literally true. Japan resisted England's effort to force it to demonetize silver, and had she done as the United States was trapped into doing, and established the gold standard, the recent series of remarkable victories which have enabled this little country to conquer one of the largest and the most thickly populated nation on earth would have been impossible, for with the gold standard England must firs have been consulted and its consent obtained before Japan would have been in a position to successfully carry on war. For the past two years Japan has experienced the most prosperous times in the history of the nation. As the result of the successful termination of its war with China it will now begin to enjoy a period of phenomenal prosperity. And the same thing will be true not only of Japan but of China, whose main rivers have been opened to the commerce of the world and whose people, impressed with the experience with Japan, will now begin to take on the life of a new civilization which Japan has been steadily accepting for the past twenty

The points of the world's great development for the next decade will be Japan and China, and while Japan is moving forward in its marvelous career independent of England and threatening to take possession of the commerce of the orient heretofore enjoyed almost exclusively by England, the tories of the United States are moving along entirely different lines to bind tighter the shackles of our dependence to England. England snaps its fingers at the United States today, for as Mr. Newlands well says it "controls us more absolutely than if she had left her troops and governors here since 1776." Japan, on the other hand, independent prosperous and powerful in its own strength, becomes the ploneer of the new civilization in Asia and defies the foreign interference which threatens its vitality and menaces its progress. Our country might well take a lesson from Japan-but, in the meantime, the tories are on top.

He Don't Want It. The Greenville Herald-Journal is one of the very best weekly newspapers published in Georgia. Mr. W. B. Patillo is the editor of The Herald-Journal, and is one of the strongest and most vigorous editorial wrivers

The Reform Club, of New York, which denounces bimetallism as "a delusion and a snare," as has already been told in The Constitution, has undertaken a campaign for "sound currency" and a fund has been raised by the millionaire members of the club for the purpose of scattering the doctrine of gold monometallism. It proposes to distribute "broad-side" sheets which, the club announces in a circular letter, will be "prepared for use as 'extras,' to be folded in with the regular editions of papers desiring them." These so-called "sound money extras" are being offered to the weekly press of the whole country, but we are glad to notice that as yet none of them have been accepted by the press of Georgia and very few of them have got into the weekly press in any of the states of the union.

The Herald-Journal received one of the circulars referred to which it encloses to The Constitution with a letter from its editor, Mr. Patillo, saying:

"If I had a lingering doubt of the infamy of the gang seeking to fasten the gold standard irrevocably on this country, the fact that these men are willing to furnish free, at great expense to themselves, supplements to the papers which will circulate them, would dispel the illusion. The gauntlet has been thrown down by President Cleveland and the people will take it up. May wisdom step in and solidify them under one banner, for with these forces united they will sweep the country."

All of which is true. The weekly press of Georgia has long been a tower of strength in the protection of the people's rights, and it is highly gratifying to see it so much in earnest and so thoroughly united in the contest which is now going on between the people and the money power.

Secretary Morton as a Financier.

The activity of the cabinet commissioner of agriculture, Morton, in financial matters is attracting much attention. His friends in Nebraska say if he does not understand financial matters any better than he does farming, and they are inclined to think he does not, then you only have to hear what he says to know how foolish his opinions are.

The truth is, Morton was not given his present position on account of anything he knew about farming or finance. He is emphatically a henchman, and all the prominence he ever had came on this account. The strong corporations in the northwest who have bonds to sell in Europe are responsible for his appointment, and this is the reason why he sloshes over into financial matters without paying much attention to his own department. He fights silver with more vigor than he does the potato bug or the Russian thistle.

The New York Mercury makes the following sensible comment on his last fulmination in favor of gold monometal-

"The relation of supply to demand," says Morton, "is the sole regulator of value. This axiom applies alike to salt, sugar and soap." But does not the fact that silver has been demonetized have something to do with the fact that gold is "up" and silver is "down?" Statistics show that the supply of silver is not nearly as great as some advocates of the gold standard would have people believe it to be. But leaving that question out of consideration, it is not difficult to comprehend that when the congress of the United States and the governments of European rations decree that only gold shall be redemption money, the demand for silver may not be equal to the supply. There would be no great value to soap or sait if there were articles which could be substituted for them, and the governments of leading nations should pass laws discriminating against soap and salt and in favor of the substitute articles. There was demand enough for silver in this country from the day its government was founded down to the time of silver's demonetization. There will be abundant de-mand again when the United States returns to the use of honest money which is not gold alone, but gold and silver, the money of the constitution and the people.

The Issue Made Up.

We observe that some of the cuckoo organs in this section are growing uneasy over the declaration of J. Sterling Morton, of Mr. Cleveland's cabinet, in favor of the single gold standard, and are trying to explain it in various ways.

They appear to forget that a few months ago J. Sterling Morton was a howling enthusiast in favor of international bimetallism, and that it is only since the publication of Mr. Cleveland's letter to the Chicago agents of the gold trust that he has declared himself to be in favor of the single gold standard.

They appear to forget that the report of his interview was printed after a meeting of the cabinet which was called to discuss the financial question, and that it followed promptly on the heels of the declaration of the William Street Reform Club in favor of the single gold standard.

We judge from all the symptoms that the cuckoos in the south desire to have it understood that they are not in favor of the single gold standard; but if they propose to follow Mr. Cleveland and his administration they will have to get right in the goldbug procession. All the arguments they have been printing for the last six months are calculated to land them there if they believe in their own statements.

They declare that they are in favor of international bimetallism, but the only way in which they have thus far met the arguments of the democrats has been by quoting the ridiculous statements put forth by the organs of the eastern money power. They are now trying to escape from the position in which they have been placed by substituting subserviency to an individual for fealty to party principles. They say that the democratic party has distinctly approved an international agreement. It is equally true that the party bas approved the restoration of silver by legislative adjustment. As there is not now and never has been any reasonable ground for expecting an international agreement with Great Britain as a party thereto, there is but one thing left for the people to do, and that is to proceed to restore silver by legislative enactment and adjustment. The cuckoos in this section need not hope to escape from the position in which they have placed themselves. Indeed, we have no idea that they desire to. Mr. Cleveland, J. Sterling Morton and the William Street Reform Club have stripped the Issue naked. They have stripped the issue naked. stand for the single gold standard, and the cuckoos will stand with them. The little flutter that is now perceptible among the cuckoos is merely for the purpose of deceiving the people a little longer. But the people are not deceived at all. They know that the ssue is between the dishonest dollar that is stealing the profits of their business and labor and the honest bimetallic dollar that insures them fair and stable prices and profits.

The people understand the issue, we think, and the cuckoos may as well get into the goldbug procession.

Cuba's Mulatto General.

Conflicting reports concerning General Maceo come from Cuba. He was not killed in the recent battle, but for the present he is keeping out of sight. One story is that he committed suicide, and nother is that he was drowned. His followers claim that he is safe and will be heard from at the proper time.

The general is a mulatto. He is a brainy fellow of some education and distinguished appearance, and his military ability is so well known that many white revolutionists are perfectly willing to serve under him. In the last great insurrection General Maceo was a formidable antagonist for General Campos to handle, and the Spanish commander found him a foeman worthy of his

These two veterans are again pitted against each other after an interval of nearly twenty years, and if the mulatto is not killed or captured early in the struggle he will give the Spaniard serious trouble.

Some of our readers may think it strange that a mulatto is commander in chief of the Cuban revolutionists, but it should be recollected that in the West Indian islands negroes and half-breeds have always shown good fighting qualities. Toussaint L'Ouverture whipped the French in San Domingo time and again, and it required good generalship and finally false pledges to subdue him. He was a negro without military training, and yet he was a match for some of the best generals of France.

It is not probable that Maceo will ever rise very high in Cuba if the revolt succeeds. The white Cubans will control in the organization of a government, and, of course, they will insist upon a white president. The mulatto general's prominence and popularity will end when the fighting ends. He is not qualified for leadership in peace, and it is quite likely that his color keeps large numbers of whites from joining the revolutionists. Certainly white volunteers from the United States would not like to serve under him.

This Will Please the Tories.

Our dispatches yesterday contained a statement to the effect that the cabinet of Nicaragua is considering a proposition to cede Corn island to England to satisfy the latter's claim for indemnity for the expulsion of Mr. Hatch.

There are two Corn islands-a big one and a little one. They are northwest of Bluefields, and are about forty miles from the coast and 100 from Greytown. near the track of the vessels that will use the proposed canal. Great Corn island is about five miles long, with good anchorage and shelter for vessels. It has several hundred inhabitants and would be a fine naval station and strong hold for the British and would enable them to easily control the canal.

The cession of this territory to England would be contrary to the letter and spirit of the Monroe doctrine, and if Nicaragua is in earnest about it our government should enter a vigorous protest. It is the fashion now for our tories to take up the British cry that the Monroe doctrine is a played out fad. but the facts of the case are against them. In 1882 Secretary Frelinghuysen in a dispatch to Minister Lowell said:

In 1823, Mr. Canning, with the concur-rence of the cabinet of London, informed Mr. Rush that Great Britain could not with indifference the intervention oreign powers in Spanish-America, or the colonies, and suggested a joint declaration that effect by the United States and reat Britain. This suggestion grew out the relations then existing between France and Spain, their attitude toward the South American republics then strug-gling for independence, and the injuries to the colonies and commerce of Great Britain which would result from a cessful prosecution of the policy of those two governments. It will be seen from this bit of history that the doctrine once had the hearty indersement of England, and when President Monroe formulated it, not as a joint declaration, but for the United States, it was received in England with enthusiasm. Just now, for their own selfish purposes, the British would gladly see this policy set aside, but it is more than ever to our interest to maintain it. But we can think of nothing that would please our tories better than England's acquisition of a stronghold which would enable her to command the entrance to the Nicaragua canal. If the scheme is persisted in we shall see every tory newspaper in the country attacking the Monroe doctrine and advocating its abandonment. The tories are working for two things-the financial supremacy of the British and their political control in this hemisphere.

It is well to have the plain American people wake up to a full understanding of the dangers that confront us. In the old days we successfully revolted against the monetary and political systems of Great Britain, but we now have in our midst active enemies of the republic who are working to secure the restoration of the shackles which we got rid of more than a century ago. It is time to revive the old-time rallying cry: "Down with the tories!"

EDITORIAL COMMENT. John N. Stearns, who died in Brooklyn

the other day, stood next to Neal Dow as a temperance worker. "I was down in Cobham, Va., recently, says a gossiper in The Washington "and I saw Mrs. Amelie Rives Chanl all the glory of a northern winter day. The weather was extremely cold and the snow was hard and packed, making the sleighing as excellent as I have ever seen it in higher latitudes. Mrs. Chanier was stay-ing, I am told, at her father's estate, Castle Hill. She came into Cobham driving a pair of half-wild thoroughbred bays to a sleigh. The team didn't seem to like the cold at all, and when they were brought to a stop those standing by feared the sleigh would be overturned. But Mrs. Chanler knew what she was about, and sat up with a firm grasp on the reins until the horses evidently wore out her patience, for she took up the whip and gave them three or four sharp cuts brought them to their senses in short order. Then she jumped out, leaving team unattended. Her husband is an of the Cobham people. Grace church, the Episcopal place of worship here, was lately burned, entailing a loss of $20,000, but, thanks to Mr. Chanler, there was an insurance of $12,000 on it, which he had carried, on his own personal responsibility, for several years."

The Rev. Dr. R. Heber Newton, in recent sermon in New York, discarded the Christian theory of the resurrection and argued that it was the spiritual body of Christ, and not His physical body which appeared to his disciples and ascended to

THE SILVER MOVEMENT.

Augusta Chronicle: It is a favorite argument of the gold advocates that the friends of silver are not arguing for bimetallism, but for silver monometallism. The friends of silver are doing no such thing. They are working for the restoration of silver to the place it occupied before 1873. They do not ask any more. We did not have silver monometallism then, and the friends of silver do not believe admitting it to the mints will bring silver monometallism now. But the champions of gold insist that it would, and the most frank for if the mints will bring silver monometallism now. But the champions of gold insist that it would, and the most frank (or if not the most honest, the most intelligent) declare that the issue that is before the country is a straightout fight between gold monometallism and silver monometallism. The sky is now cleared; the issue is plain. The gold standard men are for gold monometallism straightout. There can be no room for doubt any longer, and now against silver straightout. There can be no room for doubt any longer, and now the lines can be drawn without any mistake. Those friends of gold who favor the coinage of silver under international agreement, and those friends of gold who believe in bimetallism, can now decide where they will align themselves—with the men who want gold, and nothing but gold, or with the men who are fighting not to demonetize gold, but to remonetize silver. The fight is on and the friends of silver are ready for the issue.

Albany Heraid: The Augusta Chronicle Albany Heraid: The Augusta Chronicle condenses a long story into a nutshell as follows: "The advocates of the sold standard are constantly predicting the financial woes that would follow the free coinage of silver. The people already are experiencing financial woes, and they are willing to risk the silver trial. The same classes that fought the income tax are fighting the free coinage of silver. The income tax, had it beer allowed to do the work it was intended to do, would have forced the capitalists to bear a proportiorate share of ntended to do, would have forced apitalists to bear a proportionate share capitansts to bear a proportionate share of the cost of the federal government. Very naturally, they fought it, as men don't pay taxes that they can help paying. The free coinage of silver will cut down the ap-preclated value that gold now enjoys, and very naturally the fellows with the gold are fighting it. That is the whole story in a nutshell."

The Augusta Chronicle of Tuesday has the following deserved compliment to Governor Northen:

"Ex-Governor Northen has accomplished a grand work for Georgia. We do not hesitate to say that it is more potential for good than any work of a public character that has been done in this state in the present generation. He has sold a large body of land in southern Georgia and will settle on it 40,000 people from the western states. A new era has opened upon the south, and never before in its history was there so much inquiry about the southern states. The south has thrown wide onen her gates. Our northern brothers are solicited to come in and possess the land. They are cordially invited to come and grow up with the country. There is no longer any ostracism in the south, nor is there proscription off account of religious or political differences. All barriers have been removed and all men who come to develop the resources of the south in every field of human endeavor are welcome. Georgia is actively in the field for immigration from the northern and western states. With a climate and soil and products of the field forest and mine, and the highest possibilities for successful manufactures of wood, fron and cotton, there is no state in the union that offers superior attractions and inducements to the capitalist, farmer, artisan and mechanic."

Americus Times-Recorder: April 26th has Americus Times-Recorder: April 28th has been set aside as confederate decoration day in Georgia, and from the mountains to the sea loving hands will strew zweet spring flowers on the graves of those heroes who fought and fell under the stars and bars in defense of the southland. One of the grandest things that can be said of our southern people is that they have always nonored their dead, and on Decoration, Day have made beautiful the last resting place of the gallant men who died for a cause they believed to be right. This devotion has done so much to win admiration for the southern character that veterans of the union armies now join the old confederates in the memorial services at our cemeteries, and in turn the confederates assist in paying a like tribute of respect to the federal dead.

Augusta Herald: Next Friday in Georgia is dedicated to the dead soldiers of the confederacy. It will be appropriately observed in Augusta. We wish to endeavor to impress upon our people the fact that the day should be given up entirely to our heroes of the war. It has been the custom with many of us to make the graves of our own dear departed ones, or every lot in the cemetery, beautiful with flowers on Memorial Day, principally because on that day there are so many visitors to the city of the dead. We beg our readers to not do this this year or subsequently. But one day in all the year is asked for the "boys who wore the gray"—one day in 365. Let all the flowers be given them on that day—all the attention, all the care, all the outward evidences of love and veneration.

A TEACHER'S WOE.

A Young School Teacher Arrested for Irregularity in Accounts.

THERE WAS NO INTENTIONAL WRONG

Bullock Comes from a Prominent Family Georgia-What He Says.

I. B. Bullock, a prominent young man of middle Georgia and a teacher of some reputation, is a prisoner at police head quarters. The circumstances of his arrest are peculiar and if his own statement be true will implicate others of greater prominence than he.

Bullock was arrested under a warrant taken out by a well known Madison merchant, who charges cheating and swindling in that the teacher made a false representation to him concerning his accounts with the county school commissioners for the purpose of gaining credit.

The young man, however, comes from an excellent family and his own high sense of honor gives color to the belief that his arrest is due to some misunderstanding or business complication rather than to any intentional fraud on his part.

Bullock is a young man of twenty-three, with a pleasant face and an intelligent expression. His home is in Putnam county not many miles from Eatonton, which is one of the most prosperous and flourishing sections of the state. After finishing school at his home county the young man went to the university of Georgia, where he took a special course for two years perfect. ing himself in those lines which would be of advantage to him in the profession of teaching. After finishing his course there he taught school at various places in the ounties of the middle section.

Last year he had a good school in Ocone county and it was while teaching there that the trouble arose which caused his arrest in Atlanta yesterday afternoon. It was generally the custom with the teachers of that county and of all adjoining ones in that school district whenever they wished to make a purchase with no money in pocket, to give the merchant an order on the county school commissioners, who at the end of the quarter settled up the accounts and paid off salaries. This was made necessary then because of the irregular way the salaries came to the tregu-in the common schools.

Mr. Bullock, while teaching in Oconee, traded in Madison, just over in the ad-joining county. In the spring of last year, according to his account of the affair, he bought a bill of goods from Trammell, one of the largest merchants of that place, to the amount of $20. With the consent of the merchant he gave a due bill of the county school commissioner, E. C. Carter, for the amount of his purchase.

In the summer he left Oconee and took a school in another part of the state, receiving at the end of his term what salcame to him after the deduction all accounts. In some way, however, the account due the Madison merchant was not paid. Frequent notices were sent to the young man. To all of these he responded that he had made the proper arrange ment with the commissioners for the set-tlement of his bill and that it was not his fault if it was not paid.

But Trammell was in earnest and as a dernier resort took out a warrant which was forwarded to Atlanta, where the young man was known to have come. Sergeant Bradley Slaughter, who is also from Putnam county and who knows the young man and his family, was detailed to serve the warrant,

He learned yesterday that Bullock, who has decided musical proclivities, was making arrangements to become a member of the United States band at Fort McPherfact the young man was there when the officer arrived.

"Sorry to have to arrest you, old man, but here's the warrant and I couldn't get out of it," said the officer, as the two walked off toward the car line together. That's all right. I see that you are right. but that charge is all wrong and I'll prove replied the prisoner frowning. What Bullock Says.

Bullock takes his arrest in good spirit and has patiently resigned himself

"There is some gross misunderstanding about this," he said. "I can't imagine how it is. I remember the time that I made the account and I gave the order for $20, but this thing is certain, at the end of the term I had my settlement with the commissioner and I remember disinctly that he took out the account in question. I don't charge that he didn't pay the account, but it is his fault and not mine that this trouble has come.

"I shall go back to Madison, and I hope that the whole affair will be cleared up. It is expected that the sheriff will arrive in Atlanta for the young man orning and he will be carried back at

ENTERTAIN THE MANUFACTURERS. A Meeting of the Local Committee on Arrangements.

The committee of Atlanta manufacturers appointed at the recent meeting to prepare for the entertainment of the guests who will be in the city that day, is determined to give manufacturers from other cities and towns of the state a grand welcome and a cordial greeting and to make their stay here pleasant from start to finish. The local committee on entertainment onsists of the following well-known manufacturers: J. D. Turner, chairman, president Expo-sition cotton mills; M. F. Amorous, gener-al manager Atlanta Lumber Company, Jacob Elsas, president Fulton bag and cotton mills: Louis Newelt, president Southern Furniture Company; V. W. Cleve-land, president Atlanta Tile Manufacturing Company; Isaac S. Boyd, president Southern saw works; John M. Green, president Atlanta Guapo Company; E. Van Winkle; president Van Winkle machinery works; John Oliver, president Gate City Oll Company; George Winship, president Winship Machine Company; A. A. DeLoach, president Winship Machine Company; A. A. DeLoach, president DeLoach Mill Manufacturing Company; W. D. Palmer, president Collins Brick Company.

After a liberal discussion of feasible plans for making the convention all that it ought to be, it was found that the sense of the committee was to have a right royal welcome in store for the manufacturers when they come.

Mr. Martin Amorous introduced the following resolution, which was unanimously passed:

that we invite the manufacturers of the city to meet with our committee on Tuesday, the 20th instant, at 12 o'clock noon, in room 16t Kimball house, this meeting to be held for the purpose of discussing ways and means for entertaining the members of the convention during their stay in Atlanta."

THE CURTAIN RAISER. Programme for the Dedication of the

New Lyceum Is Ready. Mayor King will make the opening ad diess at the Lyceum theater on next Monday night, and will be followed by Mr. L. L. Knight, of The Constitution, and Mr. J. H. Johnson, Jr., of The Journal. Governor Atkinson will occupy a box.

There will be many prominent citizens or the stage during the christening of the Lyceum, and several short speeches will be made by other gentlemen than the three orators already selected. These exercises will not be of great length, but will be just long enough to be interesting. At their close the performance of "Richelieu" will tegin.

The interior of the theater was seen yesterday for the first time free from scaffolding, and the few visitors that were admitted to the building were surprised at the beauty of the decorations. The interior decorations are all the work of artistic hands, and not a stench has been placed on the walls. Every design has been painted by hand. This has been slow work, but it has made the house much handsomer than it would have been otherwise. Throughout the theater one idea has been carried out entirely. The design is tropical, and even the smallest details are in perfect harmony with the other features. Reaching around the upper walls of the theater is a beautiful circle of palms that end in a cloud of mist immediately over the stage. This mist has, by an artistic touch of the painter's brush, parted and through it, with the sky for a background, shines the face of a lovely woman who displays just enough of her lovely form to attract Cupid's attention. The little archer has dropped his arrows and gazes intently into her face, while a little cherub, also attracted by the beautiful face, toys with her hair. Over the private boxes are painted designs taken from a brain filled with fancies of spring. This work was, like all of the other designs, painted by hand.

A feature that Manager Mathews has decided upon will be received with joy by many. This feature is new to Atlanta, for no theater has ever before had a liveried footman. This Mr. Mathews will have for the benefit of persons who come to the theater in conveyances of any kind. This footman will be on duty at the theater at all times, and it will be his duty to see that the guests of the theater are given proper attention.

All of the employes of the theater will be in uniform. Immediately at the entrance to the theater a checkroom will be open-ed at every performance, and will be for the use of all patrons of the house. A uniformed attendant will be on duty in this room from the time the doors of the theater are opened until they are closed after each performance. From present in-dications, the Lyceum will be decidedly metropolitan will be seen by the announcement made elsewhere in The Constitution's advertising columns today, the Georgia Elec-tric Light Company, through its president, Mr. H. M. Atkinson, annuances a voluntary reduction of 25 per cent for incandescent lights, the reduction to take effect on the 1st of May.

This will bring the price of electric light-This will bring the price of electric light-ing for business houses and residences al-most as low as that of gas. Until recent-ly ordinary incandescent lights have cost about twice as much as gas. Where a residence had been using gas and had sub-stituted incandescent lighting for it, the cost of the latter would have been about twice that of gas. Under the reduction the price of incandescent lights will be but one-third more than that of gas, the cost of incandescent lights at the reduced rate being the same as if gas was charged for at the rate of $1.50 per thousand feet, instead of $1 as now, and it is the purpose of the Georgia Electric Light Company to offer a rebate which will make the price still lower and which will put electricity the city.

This reduction is a voluntary act on the part of the company and it will no doubt result in a very general increase in the use of electricity for domestic lighting. were induced to make the reduction," said President Atkinson yesterday, "because we want to put electricity within the reach of every citizen. We are now extending our circuits to every part of the city and are taking new orders constantly for the use of electricity for domestic purposes. Under the reduction in price we expect to have our hands full and while there is very little profit in it for us at this figure, as matters now stand, we hope to be enabled in future to make a still greater reduction with the large increase in the use of electricity which is sure to follow."

MISS YATES LAST NIGHT. An Eloquent Address on Equal Rights for the Women of the Country

A large audience gathered to hear Miss Elizabeth U. Yates, the bright and talented young advocate of woman's suffrage, at the Marietta street Methodist church last

Miss Yates was at her best, and her sudience was completely captivated. She congratulated the women of Georgia on the progress made by them in the direction of securing their legal rights, and stated that Georgia women owned their own clothes, which was more than other women could say. It was the fashion for the men of the country to run the government and to parcel out its political rights among themselves, but the time had come for a change in this prevailing fashion.

The inequality of the law was shown by Miss Yates in a very apt illustration. A man in one of the northern states who was not worth a penny in his own name mar-ried a woman who was worth an even $100,000. He became the absolute owner of this fortune, but died a year after the marriage. He made a will bequeathing $25,000 of this sum to his wife provided she would never marry again.

In Tennessee and Louisiana a woman's wearing apparel belongs to her husband, and in strict propriety she might be said to wear her husband's clothes.

In one of the courts of Louisiana an effort was made to institute proceedings against a servant girl who had stolen her mistress' clothes. The court refused to allow the woman to come into court, as she had no clothes, in the legal sense of ownership, and her husband was forced to father the proceedings.

Miss Yates cited a number of illustrations showing that the drift of the times was in the direction of equal rights. It was not a mere whim that influenced the wo-men of the country in seeking the right to vote, but a desire to obtain the rights and privileges to which they were en-

HE GAVE BOND HERE

Editor Stein Was Permitted To Remain in Atlanta.

JUDGE LUMPKIN HELD THE OTHER WAY

It Was His Opinion That Stein Must Go To Cartersville-The Bond Adjusted Yesterday.

Judge Lumpkin decided yesterday afternoon that Editor Oth Stein, of The Looking Glass, would have to go to Cartersville in order to give bond, but by courtesy of Solicitor Fite, with the consent of Sheriff Griffin, the editor was permitted to give bond for $500, Mr. James W. English, Jr., signing as security.

The writ of habeas corpus taken out by the friends of Editor Stein was set for a hearing at 8:30 o'clock yesterday morning and the case was taken up, but after con siderable argument was sent over until 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon, at which time, after further argument, Judge Lumpkin rendered his decision.

There was evidently, before the decision by Judge Lumpkin, an agreement that Editor Stein should be allowed to give bond here if the proper security could be obtained. In fact, the bond had already been signed by Mr. J. W. English, Jr., and it simply remained for Editor Stein to affix his signature in order to secure his liberty again.

In the writ of habeas corpus proceedings the merits of the case were not entered into. Judge Lumpkin based his decision upon the law furnished him. He stated that he did not think that he had the right to act for the court in Cartersyille or to direct the bond to any special court, as the magistrate before whom the warrant was taken out might direct it to another He said that he admitted the inconvenience of such a proceeding, but thought that it was fully directed in the code Solicitor Fite was not sure that a bond was valid if made in a county other than that in which the warrant was sworn out and this was one of the reasons which caused him to hesitate. He asked Judge Lumpkin if it was the opinion of the court that a bond given by Editor Stein was collectible if forfeited when made in county. Judge Lumpkin stated that he be-lieved that it was. It was after this statement from Judge Lumpkin that Solicitor Fite said: "I have no desire to put Mr. Stein to any inconvenience. We believe that he could give bond in Cartersville, and as we are assured that the bond is good if made here, the sheriff agreeing, I shall be will-ing to let him sign the bond here and get a security. Sheriff Griffin told me that he was willing and I presume that he still

The bond was then accepted.

At the Morning Session.

Editor Stein was represented by Mr. Paniel W. Rountree, who made a strong legal fight for his client, and when overruled by the judge had an agreement al-ready perfected by which Editor Stein could give bond. At the morning session Mr. Rountree argued that it was not consistent with the ends of law that a man charged with a misdemeanor should be incarcerated with out a bond, and that the instructions received by the sheriff that he should receive no bond indicated a purpose outside of the law-a sinister purpose, perhaps. Solicitor A. W. Fite, of Bartow county, argued that the sheriff was simply comply-ing with the law and that the sheriff had no right to accept bond tendered by Editor Stein. He cited section 4721, which says that the sheriff shall take the prisoner be fore a judicial magistrate of the county which the warrant was sworn out. which the warrant was sworn out. A number of instances in law were cited by both sides and Judge Lumpkin decided to reserve his decision until he could investigate further. The matter was disposed worth yesterday afternoon, and was bound over in the sum of $200 on the charge of cheating and swindling preferred by the Potts-Thompson Liquor Company.

From what can be learned, there seems to be a severe misunderstanding between Mayor James and the firm of Potts-Thompsen. The firm claims that Mayor James made certain representations to the members for the purpose of securing credit on a barrel of whisky, and that the represen-tations have not been thoroughly nor fully demonstrated.

The warrant was sworn out sometime ago, but it was understood that the matter was to be settled and nothing was said about it. As the settlement was not forthcoming, the warrant was put into execution, and Mayor James appeared yesterday before Justice Bloodworth.

draymen do odd jobs in the way of hauling freight from the railroad yards. Harper and Williams were thus engaged Monday, but instead of taking the freight to the right place they drove to the store of another negro, so the detectives charge, and got away with a large lot of stuff. Both men were employed by Maddox Bros. to haul freight from the yards to their store on Alabama street. They carried a note of admission to the place and load after load was made up and deposited at the store. But late that afternoon it was discovered that a car which was intended for some other place had been broken into and a number of barrels of sugar taken away. Detectives Wooten, Bedford and Ivy were put to work on the case and gained such evidence that the arrest of the two

MOORE-JACKSON.

One of the Most Beautiful Weddings the South Has Known.

THE CHAMBERLIN--M'CARTHY MARRIAGE

Other Matrimonial Events-The News and Gossip of Society-Happenings of Interest in Atlanta and Georgia.

Of all the beautiful weading ceremonies and wedding receptions that Atlanta has known-and they have been many-very few have equaled and certainly none could have excelled that at the home of Captain Henry Jackson last night. It was the marriage of Miss Cornella Jackson to Mr. Wilmer L. Mcore. In celebration of the event there was present a brilliant assemblage and in every detail the occasion was a perfect one. Captain Jackson's handsome home wa beautiful with its wealth of floral decoration and the scene presented as the ceremony was being performed was one long to be remembered. This occurred in the spacious double drawing rooms, where there was an effective arrangement of smilax and pink roses. While the words were being pronounced that were to join their young lives the bride and groom stood before the stately mirror which had been twined with smilax. The drawing rooms were separated by a white satin ribbon drawn across beneath the center arch, this held by two of the bride's young cousins, Mary Brent Hoke Smith and Sallie Hull, who were exceedingly pretty in their gowns of pink. After the ceremony this was untied and the young people received the congratulations of their friends.

Rev. Dr. Strickler was the officiating minister and was assisted by Rev. Dr. Barnett. The ceremony was beautiful and impressive. The bridesmaids were Miss May Hull and Miss Lucy Peel; Mr. Robert F. Maddox, Jr., and Mr. Marian Jackson were the attending gentlemen, Mr. Maddox being the groom's best man. The bride's gown was of exquisite ivory satin, the skirt plain with a slight train, the waist with a full blouse front of white chiffon, the sleeves large and long with exquisite round point lace over the shoulders, these containing sprays of orange blossoms in effective arrangement; a high crush collar and a plaited belt of satin made a charming effect. Miss Jackson wore the long white vell and tiny white gatin suppers worn by her great grand-cnother, Mrs. Chief Justice Lumpkin. nother, Mrs. Chief Justice Lumpkin, hany years ago. Her jewels were superb amonds—a pendant and side combs, the lift of the groom; a handsome star holding her veil, a token of friendship from Mrs. Wilard Ward, of New York, and on her hand a magnificent turquoise surrounded by diamonds, the gift of her three devoted schoolmates, Mrs. Robert L. Foreman, Mrs. Walter Cooper, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. T. R. R. Cobb. These three beautiful young matrons, each in her wedding gown, made a striking feature of the wedding tableau, standing just back of the bride while the ceremony was being

The reception was delightful. There were present about 175 of the intimate friends of the Jackson and Mcore families, and Atlanta has never known a more brilliant gathering. A feature of the decorations were the floral drapings of the portraits of Mrs. Jackson, the bride's mother, who is in Europe, and of Mrs. General Jackson, the mother of Captain Jackson. In the dining rooms the decorations were in keep-ing with those in the drawing room. Here a delicious supper was served in the ex-quisite style which characterizes all entertainments at this house.

Chamberlin-McCarthy. Last evening at 6:30 o'clock Mr. E. P. Chamberlin, Jr., and Miss Kate McCarthy were united in marriage at the Central Presbyterian church. The event was one of great interest to the many friends of the popular young people, and the handsome church, which had been beautifully decorated for the occasion, was filled with interested spectators.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Strickler assisted by Rev. Dr. Bigham, of Trinity.

The bridal party drove from the church to the home of Mr. E. P. Chamberlin. Here the bride's bouquet was caught by Miss Maude Craig and in it were found rings as souvenirs for the lady at-

Returning, they went to the home of Rev. Mr. Collier, the Baptist minister, where the ceremony was performed in the presence of Mrs. Steward and Mr. Sanders Roland.

Miss Maymie Lovinggood and Mr. A. M. Verner were united in marriage at 9 o'clock last night at the Walker street Methodist church parsonage, Rev. J. H. Eakes offiparsonage, Rev. J. H. Eakes offi-

The wedding was a very quiet one, only the members of the preacher's family and one or two friends of the young couple being present.

The bride was formerly a resident of this city, her home now being in Elberton, Ga., where her parents and relatives re-side. She is an accomplished and popular ung lady and has a large circle of friends and acquaintances in Atlanta and Elberton During the past month she has been visit ing her sister, Mrs. Dr. J. W. Bridwell, of this city.

Mr. Verner is the well-known chief of the Fulton county police force.

The happy young couple will leave this morning for a bridal tour of several days through north Georgia, and upon their return will reside at 99 East Trinity avenue,

The bazaar for the benefit of the Sisters of Mercy began yesterday and the interior of the convent, decorated with palms and cut flowers, with pretty girls in attendance at the booths and dining rooms, suggested everything cheerful rather than the popular idea of "cloistered gloom." The embroidery booth, in charge of Mrs. R. D. Spalding Mrs. Joseph Burke, Mrs. Joe Gatins, Jr. and Mrs. J. J. Lynch, had a large quantity of beautiful work in embroidered linen and silks. There were center pieces, table covers, picture frames and innumerable smaller articles, that presented every kind of embroidery in the Kensington design so popular now, and the pretty old-fashion designs ed stitches. One table cloth much admired was of bluet linen embroidered in white fless, with a heavy border of open work. Another booth, at which Mrs. Carrol Payne presides, has everything requisite in baby nilets from the elaborate robe and car of lace and embroidery to the tiny silker shoes and socks. Mrs. Payne's exquisite handiwork was seen in many of the articles. One especially pretty frock made by her was of baby blue silk tastily trimmed in Irish point embroidery. The dainty little cap to match was made by Mrs. Burke. There were many simple gowns of muslin and gingham, with cunning bonnets to match. Mrs. O'Brien has in charge all the aprons and you can find hemstitched ruffles, dainty laces and ribbons on some while others for more practical use are made of white muslin and gingham. Then, there are dolls, candies and fresh flowers in the tissue paper room, Miss Annie Nash and Miss MacDonald presiding. When women accomplish perfection in whatever fads they adopt they deserve credit for it. Those who embroider violets on linen so successfully that they appear to be natural flowers scattered about are no more artistic than the patient young woman who takes tainted tissue paper and fashions out carnations and roses that are refreshing in their naturalness of appearance The tissue paper articles made by Miss Nash for this bazaar, as well as for the Rifles' fair, have won the greatest admiration. Her display of lamp shades, toilet boxes, baskets and picture frames, decorated with exquisitely tinted flowers, all in paper, has made tissue paper work al-most a subject of art. In these lovely spring days when driving, naps and novels are so inviting, only unselfishness and the sweetest motive of charity could induce any one to give so much time to tedious handiwork that was not an obligation.

The refreshments served were delicious, and consisted of cold meats, saiads, creams and strawberries, while regular dinners were furnished the gentlemen wish-ing to patronize the very deserving cause of the Sisters of Mercy.

At a meeting of the board of woman managers it was decided to hold a magnifi-cent noral carnival the day following the opening of the exposition. The carnival that was to have been held in May has been postponed in accordance with this programme. It Will Be One of the Most Gorgeous in the Government Building.

PULL LIST OF THE OFFICERS

Captain T. H. Barrey, Assistant to the Secretary of War, Isin Atlants, Making the Arrangements.

The United States army will have one of the most interesting displays in the government building.

Captain Thomas H. Barrey, assistant to the secretary of war, with headquarters in Washington, was in the city yesterday, and visited exposition headquarters and the grounds for the purpose of closing up the detail work of planning the exhibit. Captain John Clem, of this city, has been placed in charge of the work of getting the exhibit in shape when the articles of display are sent to Atlanta, which will be

y the 1st of August.
Captain Barrey is here for the purpose of conferring with both the exposition people and Captain Clem. He is a warm personal friend of Captain Clem, and the two been associated many times in the past Captain Barrey made many friends at the headquarters of the exposition yesterday and was driven out to the grounds in the afternoon with Captain Clem and Mr. W. Irving Adams, secretary of the government board, by President Charles Collier.

Not only will the display of the army be an extensive one but also a very unique and interesting show within itself, having all the dash and sparkle of "the military" in all the charm of the word and also the color of history in the exhibit of war relics illustrating the military history of the United States from the beginning. The list of displays that will be placed the space engaged by the secretary war in the government building was given

Captain Clem yesterday as follows: 1. Group of lay figures, mounted, representing General Schofield and staff; full 2. Case of officer's equipments. 3. Group of lay figures; foot soldiers of 1892. 4. Group of lay figures; foot soldiers of 1852. 5. Cavairy soldiers, in fatigue dress, with horse. 6. Case of silken regimental colors. 7. Group of lay figures; soldiers of 1861. 8. general outline of the display of the United States army shows that it will be a most complete and striking exhibit when placed in the handsome government building.

TO CONSIDER THE SITES.

The Committee Asked To Continue Its Work This Morning.

The first thing taken up at the meeting of the executive board yesterday afternoon was the question of changing the site of he woman's building. President Collier stated that some of the ladies were not entirely satisfied with the proposition to make the change and that the committee would like to have an ex-pression from the board. He thought the proposition to change was a good one. He thought the site of the driving club the best on the grounds. The site of the woman's building was objectionable in many respects.

There was considerable discussion on the matter and it was finally decided to inmmittee to continue its work and as speedily as possible and arrange, is possible, for a more satisfactory site for the building. The committee will continue its work today and will, in all prob-ability, reach some decision before night. It was stated to the committee that with the exercise of the proper enterprise the department of the south of the United States army could be secured for Atlanta. It was stated that the location of a south ern readquarters here would be of vast berefit to the city in every way. It would bring into the city a great deal of money, which would be disbursed monthly among the soldiers.

Mr. W. A. Hemphill moved that a committee from the exposition board be appointed to take up the matter and confer with the secretary of war and other au-thorities with a view to securing the change. The motion was carried Chairman English will appoint the com-

Appropriation for an Exhibit. Boston, April 23.—In the senate this after noon a message was received from Governor Greenhalge, calling attention to the Cotton States and International exposition to be held in Atlanta, Ga., from September 18th to December 31st, and favoring an appropriation for a proper representation of Massachusetts and an exhibit of her textile factories, machinery and manufactures.

ARTISTS OF WASHINGTON Meet and Aid Mr. Bradley in Exposition Work. Washington, April 23.-Two importan meetings of Atlanta exposition commit-tees were held in Washington today. The first was an informal meeting of the ar committee at the home of Miss Herbert in the morning, and the second of the wo-man's committee for the district at the home of Mrs. A. A. Wilson in the after-neon. The latter was chiefly for organization and for the appointment of subcommittees.

Miss Herbert has been greatly interested in the work of the art committee, with which she has been connected. As her absence in Europe, whence she sails on May 8th, will prevent her doing much active work here, the general meeting of the artists of Washington was called at har house, where plans were laid, as far as possible, to smooth the way for General Commissioner Horace Brailey, who will come to Washington in two or three weeks come to Washington in two or three weeks to organize the general art committee for this section of the country.

the exposition at once.

The action of the committee today in no way prescribes the actions of Art Comn issioner Bradley on his arrival, but will give him the organized support of all the local art organizations.

NEW OFFICERS OF THE CLUB.

Capital City Club Held Yesterday. The regular annual election of officers of the Capital City Club was held yesterday and passed off unusually quiet. There was no opposition ticket in the field and the same old officers were reelected, with perhaps one exception, Mr. R. F. Maddox, Jr., declining to allow the use of his name for membership of the governing committee, of which he has been a valued member for a long term. Major Livingston Mims was re-elected president without opposition.

Dr. Hunter P. Cooper was re-elected vice president and Colonel J. C. Courtney was re-elected secretary. The following members of the govern-ing committee were elected: Mr. Charles Crankshaw, Mr. W. P. Hill, Dr. Elkin, Mr. H. M. Atkinson, Mr James C'Ne'll and Mr. Charles Harman. Mr. Maddox filed his notice of withdrawal from the committee to the regret of many members who have appreciated his valued service in the past and declined to allow his friends to use his name in connection with re-election. He gave as his reasons for such a course that he would be away much service to the club as an officer as he would care to be.

The voting went on all day in the polling box at the club, but the vote was small and there was wondrous unanimity and harmony prevalent.

MR3. MILLEDGE CAN'T BE PRESENT

The Final Arrangements Have All Been Made-The Day Will Be Observed All Over the South.

All preparations for Memorial Day have been completed and day after tomorrow the scent of sweet flowers and the tears of the good women of the south will cover the long home of the brave who gave their lives for the lost cause.

The Ladies' Memorial Association met yesterday morning at the state house in the library department and made practically the final arrangements for the day under the guidance of Mrs. Captain W. D. Ellis, vice president of the association. The members of the association, however. will have another meeting tomorrow morning at Oakland, where the arrangement of the floral distribution over the graves of the confederate dead and every remaining detail will be given the necessary atten-

Memorial Day is one of the events of the year that is sacred and dear to the hearts of every southerner, especially the ladies. It is upon that day that flowers are scattered and strewn upon the graves of those who went to the front and gave their lives for the cause which is so dear to the hearts of the southern women. It was in the sixtles, directly after the war, that Memorial Day was inaugurated and the mother of the movement was, as is well known all over the south, Mrs. Wil-liams, mother of Howard Williams, of this city. The services when first begun were fraught with the fresh sorrow of many a went by the poignancy of the grief less, yet the devotion of the women to the cause never relaxed in the least. On the contrary, as the years have grown the deeper and more decided has become the love of the women of the south for those who are now among the heroes of the southern heart and whose bodies have long since returned to the ciay.

In Atlanta this year the day will be observed generally. The business houses of the city will have a haif holiday all around, while the postoffice will be open the same hours as on the national Memo-rial Day and the banks will be closed during the day. The military of the city will be out in full force while the Confederate Veterans and the Ladies' Memorial Association will form a part of the long procession that will be formed.

The procession promises to be one of the most interesting and attractive that Atlanta has seen in a long time, while the lanta has seen in a long time, while the services at the cemetery will be equally if not more impressive than they nave been in many a year. The orator of the day this year is Mr. L. L. Knight, of The Constitution, one of the brightest and most talented orators in the state.

Mrs. Milledge's condition will not allow her to be present and it will be the first Memorial Day in years that she has not ob-served the ceremonies. As president of the association she has been out every year working for the cause so dear to her heard and her absence this year has been deeply felt by all of the members of the associa-

Never before has the cemetery been more property prepared for the cay than it is now. Hon. Robert Douge, chairman of the cemetery committee, has made it his especial business to assist Mr. Clayton, the city sexion, in placing the cemetery in snape for the day. Around the confederate monument and the Lion of Lucerne the grass has been cropped and everything, has been given a most de-lightful and pleasing appearance, while around the graves of the confederate dead nothing has been left that would in the least mar the appearance of the grounds. In fact, the cemetery was never in better shape than it is now and the work has been the especial pride of the chairman of the cemetery committee and the sexton, Mr. Clayton. The drives have been worked and made as smooth as can be and when the procession moves into Oakland those who are in line will not only be surprised, out will be delighted at the changes

At the meeting of the Ladies' Memorial Association the members did not forget the confederate dead whose bodies are in the cemetery at Fort Douglas, near Chi-cago. A committee which had been apthe cemetery at Fort Douglas, near Unicago. A committee which had been appointed submitted a report, which reads:

"On the 30th of May, 1895, a monument will be universed at Unicago. It is the only confederate monument north of the Mason and Dixon line, recognized by the United states wovernment. It will be erected in the memory of the six thousand solders who died in Camp Douglas prison in 1862-65. The monument will cost over $12,000. It is thirty-two feet high and is surmounted by the statue of a confederate soldier. On the pedestal of Georgia granite are allegorical figures; on the south side of the monument is a representation of the soldiers' last sleep. There is a moonlight effect on a dismantled fortification, and a soldier boy has crawled under a tree to die. The Ladies' Memorial Association of Atlanta read of this confederate monument elected on northern soil. Write memory thrills with the recollection of the soldier boy who died for the cause he loved, the hearts of southern women beat in glad exuitant joy as they realize that the value of the southiand receives tangible recognition. Be it, therefore, "Resolved. That the Ladies' Memorial Association of Atlanta express their cordial appreciation of the fraternal affections expressed by the erection of a conteverate monument in Chicago; and "Resolved, That as an association we voke the sentiment of the south and return thanks to the ex-confederates of Chicago, to General John C. Underwood, and to all those who have generously contributed toward the completion of this monument. And also be it further "Resolved, That the kindly feeling created by Horace Greeley in signing the bond of Jefferson Davis from Fortress Monroe and subsequently strengthened by many generous acts of national kindness, has attained its culmination in Chicago, and we are conjugred by kindness. Emulating the examples of the confederate survivors, the Ladies' Memorial Association is loyal to one country and offe flag.

"MRS. U. D. ELLIS, "First Vice President."

Héadquarters Atlanta C pointed submitted a report, which reads

A DAY FOR FLOWERS MICHIGAN'S BENEFACTOR

The Ladies Memorial Association Holds AN OFT REPEATED STORY OF TRUE PHILANTHROPY.

What Chas. H. Hackley Has Done for Western Michigan.

From Grand Rapids, Mich., Evening Press.
The most beautiful spot in all this city is inseparably associated with the name of Hackley. Charles H. Hackley has been in the lumber business continuously since 1856 and in that time has amassed a fortune which gives him a rating among the wealthy men of the nation. But with wealth there did not come that tightening of the purse strings which is generally a marked characteristic of wealthy men.

It is no wonder then that the name of Charles H. Hackley is known at home and abroad. His munificence to Muskegon alone represents an outlay of nearly half a million. For the past twenty years he has been a constant sufferer from neuralgia and rheumatism, also numbness of the and rheumatism, also numbness of the lower limbs, so much so that it has seri-lower limbs, so much so that it has seriously interfered with his pleasure in life. For some time past his friends have noticed that he has seemed to grow young again and to have recovered the health which he had in youth.

To a reporter for The Press Mr. Hackley explained the secret of this transformation, "I have suffered for over twenty years, he said, "with pains in my lower limbs so severely that the only relief I could get at night was by putting cold water compresses on my limbs. I was bothered more at night than in the daytime. The neural-gie and rheumatic pains in my limbs, which had been growing in intensity for presses on my limbs. I was bothered more at night than in the daytime. The neural-gie and rheumatic pains in my limbs, which had been growing in intensity for years, finally became chronic. I made three trips to the Hot Springs with only partial relief and then fell back to my original state. I couldn't sit still and my sufferings began to make life look very blue. Two years ago last September I noticed an account of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and what they had done for others, and some cases so nearly resembled mine, that I was interested, so I wrote to one who had given a testimonial, an eminent professor of music in Canada. The reply I received was even stronger than the printed testimonial and it gave me faith in the medicine.

"I began taking the pills and found then to be all that the professor had told me they would be. It was two or three months before I experienced any perceptible betterment of my condition. My disease was of such long standing that I did not expect speedy recovery and was thankful even to be releved. Some time this summer the gallant ship Atlanta, of the White Squadron, will cast anchor off Brun wick. That means a gala

"It may be that the Atlanta can't come-She is now in the Caribbean sea, but, unless there are unexpected complications, the secretary thinks he can send her. If he cannot, he will send some other; and it is probable a monitor will be sent there to remain permanently."

"There are but two southern states besides Georgia that have any organization of this kind, and in these days or war talk and complications, the naval authorities believe in encouraging the militia in every way," said the governor.

Governor Atkinson reports that Mrs. Atkinson is considerably improved in health, which will be good news indeed to her many friends. A few days ago Mrs. Edgar Thompson called for Mrs. Atkinson and took her for a drive. Incidentally they stopped for a few minutes at the meeting being held in the interest of the woman's department of the exposition, and over which Mrs. Secretary Carlisie was presiding. Mrs. Atkinson is able to drive about some with friends, and the governor hopes that in another month she will be sufficiently strong to be brought home.

A POEM

A POEM. (By President Powell, of the Eclectic Medical Society, of the State of Georgia.)

Medical Society, of the State of Georgia.)

'Tis when the saddened heart feels most, it sighs to be out far away
Upon some isle or lonesome coast
That blooms along the shining bay;
Or farther still it longs to dwell
Beside some far-off western stream, Amid whose wilds the savage yell
is answered by the panther's scream,
Where from the mountain's craggy heights
The crawling serpents hiss and sing;
The vultures take their morning flights,
The eagle spreads his brawny wing,
Then rising from his rocky home,
He soars around and up so high,
He soon is lost in cloudy foam
That drifts across the azure sky.

So wings my rapturous soul above
Where all I see and all I hear
Proclaims God's grandeur and his love,
That bounds creation everywhere;
While earth responds, I join the praise
That rises from those mountain rills,
And gladdens in the morning rays
That light the grandeur on these hills.

Amid these scenes, O let me die,
And hide me not with graveyard stones.
That other wanderers such as I
May venerate my bleaching bones;
Let nature in her sweetness bloom,
Her sacred odors round me shed,
Will honor more than sculptured tomb,
With epitaph above my head.

Yes, let there be no stone to tell
Of gloomy vault where I am laid,
Above the ground I'd rest as well
Upon that turf in yonder shade,
And then when summons comes from God,
In judgment's great and awful day,
I'd rather rise from blooming sod
Than from the deep and damper clay.

What if no human hand shall shroud?
The weeping night with pity's care,
Will fold around her velvet cloud,
And stars will watch my slumbers there.
Till birds awake, then virgin morn
Will lift that vell so kindly spread,
And bring the sunshine to adorn
The tears of dew upon my bed.

Then let me sleep where all looks wild As Eden with her birds and flowers. When man first saw, first loved and smiled, Beneath her shades and fragrant bowers; Yes, when I die, O let me dwell Beside this far-off western stream, Amid whose wilds the savage yell Is answered by the panther's scream,

HE IS AT WORK.

Ex-Governor Northen Preparing for the Coming of the Indiana Colony.

THE LAND HAS ALREADY BEEN BOUGHT

And the Governor Is Arranging for the Transportation of the Household Goods of the Colonists.

Plans by which the extensive colony of western farmers is to be formed in Georgia are fast being perfected.

Mr. P. H. Fitzgerald, of Indianapolis, who organized the colony, is hard at work at his end of the line and Governor Northen is busy at this end. The site for the colony has already been selected and the farmers are making preparations to come.

Ex-Governor Northen, in an interview yesterday, stated that he is now beginning correspondence to arrange details for the transportation of the household goods and stock belonging to the members of the stock belonging to the members of the Indiana soldier colony.

Ex-Governor Northen has been in personal conference with some railroad officials and in correspondence with others looking to the best arrangements for the transportation of these people. The deal has been finally closed for the purchase of 100,000 acres of land for settlement and the parties are now only waiting for the title papers to begin the survey of the lands. These papers will soon be perfected, the governor says, and then the work will begin.

The colony is the largest ever organized in this country and one of the most extensive ever conceived in the world. It consists of more than 10,000 families and will persons. One may appreciate its size when he understands that this number of persons about equal to a city of the population of Macon or Augusta and to three average counties.

This organization is the creation of Mr. P. H. Flitzgerald, editor of The American Tribune, of Indianapolis, Its plan is the result of years of thought and has been quietly worked out to a successful and marvelous issue

Briefly stated, this plan is to form a mu-tual colony in which every share partici-pates in the affairs of the community and has a proportionate interest in all profits. No one can hold more than ten shares of stock, the shares being $10 each. The holder of one share is entitled to make a location of land for his home, and all lands taken must be for the purpose of living thereon. At the center of the tract of land selected for the settlement of the colony 1,200 acres will be laid off into streets for a city, the remainder of the land to be divided into gardens and farms. Every other lot and farm will be reserved for the general profit expected in the sale of lard after improvements will have en-hanced its value. These lands will be di-vided out by allotment. The colonists get their holdings at original cost of the land. They are charged with the price of their holdings, and it is expected that the profits will clear off the indebtedness within six. years. There will be, therefore, no outlay by the colonist for the land he holds.

Governor Northen has in hand other colonies of less size, one having an option on 15,000 acres of land in lower middle Geor. gia. Arrangements for settlement by this colony will soon be perfected. The governor says:

"The inquiries as well as the actual "The inquiries as well as the actual settlements made in this state indicate a large increase of population and a great inflow of good people. Recent developments in fruit growing and stock raising, together with the unusual transportation facilities found in this state, are attracting attention from people at the north and west who are seeking better conditions for such pursuits in a mild climate, among hospitable and law-abiding people."

Mr. Fitzgerald's Statement.

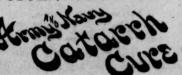

In an interview printed in The Indian.

In an interview printed in The Indianapolis Journal of recent date, Mr. Fitz-gerald has this to say of his project: "Yes, the report you speak of is true. I Tes, the report you speak of is true, I have just returned from a trip with the colony committee through Georgia. This is my second trip into that state seeking a proper location for our colony. The idea of this colony has been bearing upon my mind and has received my attention for several years past, situated as I am and have been for years, being in communication with so many thousand soiders. I have received many requests to organize such received many requests to organize such a colony. I at last took the matter up and perfected a plan upon a mutual basis, Our plan is a mutual stock eempany of 50,000 shares of $10 each, making a capital of $50,000 colo. The organization purchases a tract of 100,000 acres in one body. At the center, or as near as will permit, we will lay off 1.000 acres for our city. The remainder of the lands will be surveyed and staked into farmis, ranging from five acres on up to 100 acres each. Each other tract will be alloted to members, the colony retaining the alternate tracts to be sold at such times as fair prices can be had and demands made, which must come so soon as our settlements and improvements begin. The lands have now been purchased by a committee, selected from members of the organization, who, after inspecting lands in four counties of Georgia, selected 101,000 acres in Montgomery county, about 125 miles above the south line of Georgia, eighty-five miles west of Savannah and sixty-five miles southeast of Macon, a most beautiful location. Health and water are very fine. All kinds of farming fs done there and the fruit of that section is very fine. Much has been said for and against our enterprise, but we are going steadily on and will soon be able to close our membership books. We have every state west of Ohio represented, with Indiana ahead and Nebraska coming next. Every state has good, large clubs. The officers will be selected from each state who will be competent to manage its affairs. It is not in any way connected with the G. A. R., while we give the honor of the name as the Soldier Colonization Company, yet it is purely a business enterprise and good citizens in all trades of life as well as the soldiers are admitted. Something has been said about titles to lands in the south, but it will be understood that no lands would be accepted unless they bear a good and sufficient title, which must be made to them and approved by competent attorneys. We have too much at stake to do otherwise. We have found in t received many requests to organize such a colony. I at last took the matter up and perfected a plan upon a mutual basis. Our

"These men met many of their comrades on their travels through Georgia and all gave them great encouragement. Our members are all of a good class of people and will make a community that the state will be proud of. Our membership is nearly ready to close and we shall soon elect officers and begin our work. We are now only waiting for perfect and complete title. As soon as it is made we shall send to the location three saw mills, one planing mill, one shingle mill and brick mill, and push the work of getting out lumber and having it in shape when the people get ready to locate on the land, which will begin in September and continue until December, when we believe, nearly all the members will get there. The colony organization will expend something like $200,000 upon the work of preparing the city and giving members work until they begin to raise something, which, I assure you, is easily and early done in the middle section of Georgia. We have been met with many such articles and other hindrances thrown in our way by people who have some personal motive for changing the colony location to nearer them or who were unable to sell us lands, but we shall overcome this.

"I do not know as I have anything fur-

"I do not know as I have anything further to say more than we shall push the enterprise and I feel confident of fits grand success. Ex-Governor Northen has interested himself in the matter and is doing all he can to assist us in every way. Inasmuch as you have come to interview me upon this subject I desire to give you the facts."

A LONG-RANGE INTERVIEW.

Colonel John A. Wimpy Would Like To Know Why He Was Misquoted. Some enterprising young newspaper reporter in New York has been taking the rame of Colonel John A. Wimpy, of Atlenta, in vain.

The colonel was very much surprised when he waked up yesterday morning and when he waked up yesterday morning and found from a clipping in The Constitution that he had been interviewed in the tafe of the Hotel Imperial in New York. The clipping was from The New York Morning Journal. As the colonel has been quietly attending to his law business in this city, and has not visited New York in five years, he was naturally very curious to know how the reporter of The Morning Journal accomplished the feat of interviewing him in the fashion stated.

The clipping was as follows:

"Th have 50,000 negroes in this city in three months."

"Colonel John A. Wimpy, of Atlanta, Ga., made this statement to a Journal many esterday in the cafe of the Hotel Imperial.

"My law business I have left in the hands of my partners,' he continued, 'and I am in New York to form one of the biggest syndicates of the age. It is to arrange for the transportation of negroes from the south, who will take the places of unsatisfactory white servants.

"Do you think it will be a successful enterprise?" said the reporter.

"I am sure of it. The help in your northern country is simply diabolical. We will furnish employment bureaus with colored servants. They will supply them to the householders. The syndicate I propose to establish is for the shipping of them here."

"Do you ont believe they will get as bad found from a clipping in The Constitution

Do you not believe they will get as bad as the white servants?

"No, said the colonel, with emphasis. If they are treated reasonably they will work faithfully all their lives. I only arrived in the city today. I shall commence operations almost at once, though I never let the grass grow under my feet. Several of my friends and I talked this matter over a month ago. We heard on every hand complaints from the northern people about their help. Down south we heard the continued cry of "no work" for the negro, and as a matter of common sense put two and two together." Colonel Wimpy has written the following

Colonel Wimpy has written the following card concerning the interview:

"Editor Constitution—My attention was called to the clipping which appeared in your paper of yesterday in the column headed 'Georgians Elsewhere.' It is false as it is absurd. I am very much surprised to know there is any one who would perpetrate upon me a joke of the above nature, for a joke it must surely be, for I have not been in New York in five years, nor have I seen a New York reporter, and God forbid that I should ever see one who publishes such malicious fabrications. I belong to no syndicate whatever, nor do I entertain any such cranky notions as attributed to me. The purported interview is utterly false, springing as it did entirely from the brain of some idle reporter whose faculty of imagination is only equaled by his unbounded mendacity. Respectfully.

THE SEABOARD'S SUIT

A Bill of Exceptions to Judge Lump kin's Decision

WAS FILED BY MR. SPALDING YESTERDAY

What Is Claimed by the Seaboard Air Line in the Bill-Other Railroad News of Interest.

The latest echo in the Seaboard Air Line boycott case is sounded in the filing of a bill of exceptions in the Georgia supreme court by the attorneys for the Seaboard, King & Spalding, of this city. It is that part of the decision of Judge Lumpkin that fails to enjoin the Western and Atlantic from the boycott with respect to business originating beyond the line of the Western and Atlantic that the Seaboard bases its appeal upon and asks for judgment in the court above. The case is familiar to every one at all posted on the issues involved. When the Southern Railway and Steamship Association issued what has become known as the "boycott" against the Seaboard for irregular practices in the handling of traffic and the cutting of rates the Seaboard went to law with the Western and Atlantic to prevent that road from entering into the boycott as one of the members of the Southern Railway and Steamship Association.

The Seaboard had entered into a private contract with the Western and Atlantic when it was first built to Atlanta whereby it was to enjoy the use of the Western and Atlantic's terminals here for a con-sideration, and in that contract it is specially stated that the Western and At-lantic would always grant the Seaboard as advantageous rates as it granted to other roads.

It was on this contract that the Western and Atlantic went to the courts and seand Atlantic went to the courts and secured a temporary injunction against the Western and Atlantic from entering the boycott. When the case came to trial, however, the decision of the court was such as enjoined the Western and Atlantic from the boycott only in so far as local business, originating between Atlantic from the court was such as the property of the court lanta and Cnattanoga, was concerned. The Western and Atlantic was allowed to continue in the boycott with respect to ousiness originating beyond Chattanooga

This was practically refusing the in-unction, for it is known that the business originating in the great jobbing centers of he west is the great bulk of the business that the Western and Atlantic brings to its connections here during the year and that the business originating between Atlanta and Chattanooga for through ship-ment over the Seaboard would amount to not more than 5 per dent of the entire traf-

it was recently stated that the Seaboard would take the fight up to the interstate commerce commission and wage a vigorous war against the right of existence of

The case has gone to the Georgia supreme court, Mr. Jack J. Spalding, of the nrm of King & Spalding, having filed the bill of exceptions yesterday with the court. Reviewing the bill yesterday Mr. Spalding thus explained the claims therein set forth and recounted the points upon which the appeal is made:

Retail Grocers' Meeting.

The retail grocers of Atlanta will hold an important meeting on Thursday night, the 25th, at the lecture hall of the Young Men's Christian Association. Committees from the Retail Grocers' Collection and In formation Bureau have the arrangements in charge and an interesting programme is promised. Several prominent members from the Wholesale Grocers' Association and of the the bureau have consented to address the meeting on matters pertaining to the welfare of both associations. A band will be on hand to discourse music and a collation will be served at the conclusion of the programme. An interesting and profitable time is expected.

SOUTHERN EXPRESS

An Important Meeting of the High Officials of the Company.

ALL THE SUPERINTENDENTS WERE HERE

They Met To Adjust Many Matters of a Routine Nature in the Traffic Department-O'Brien Here.

There was a gathering of the high offisials of the Southern Express Company from all over the south at the headquarters of the company in this city yesterday. The purpose of the meeting was to at tend to some traffic arrangements and extensions of territory which have been brought to the consideration of the general manager. The general manager of the company called the meeting for the purpose of clearing up all the routine work that has ac-cumulated along this line.

There was a full attendance at the conference, the following being present: M. J. O'Brien, general manager; T. W. Leary, assistant general manager; C. L. Loop, traffic manager, and the following

superintendents: C. T. Campbell and Mark O'Brien, Chattanooga; H. Dempsey, Augusta; G. W. Agee, Memphis; H. C. Fisher, Nashville; V. Spalding, Roanoke; W. T. Croswell, Wilmington; O. M. Sadder, C. Myers, Jacksonville; W. W. Hulbert, Atlanta

Hon. F. G. duBignon, of Savannah, the general counsel for the company, was also here in the conference, it being the rule of the company to have the legal department represented at all such gatherings

The work of the meeting was highly satisfactory, but being of a strictly routine nature was of no particular public interest. The express men were in session in the headquarters of Superintendent Hulbert all the afternoon and went through with much important business pertaining to the inside workings of the company. General Manager O'Brien says the company is prosperous and successful, and that in the matter of freight traffic is building up quite an extensive business throughout this territory. He says the occasional train robberies that have occurred lately have given the company some little trouble but expresses the hope that the practice of robbing trains will soon pass entirely out of the south. There have not been any very serious robberies of express cars in this territory lately, though several attempts have been made to deprive the cars on certain roads of their valuables. General Manager O'Brien is a man of splendid ability and rare qualifications for the work that falls to him as the manager of such a vast system of freight transpor-tation as is the Southern express, and under his able guidance the company has thrived and is growing greater every day.

Mr. H. B. Plant, the great railway and steamship owner, is president of the Southern Express Company. He started his great fortune in the business.

Before the war the Southern Express Company was organized, but went under another name until the first guns began to fire. Then the company divided its business, finding that it could not very well intries when the two nations were at war with each other.

Then the name was changed this side of the Mason and Dixon line and the company became known as the Southern Express Company. Mr. Plant, who had been swent igusta, was made president of the ern, and under his excellent management the company prospered like the pro-

After the war he was retained in the com pany, and when the railroad development came in this section the company grew stronger, until President Plant began to find himself able to build a few branch railroads of his own. He soon found himself able to build ships and started a steamship line, and gradually grew rich in

The Southern Express Company has always played a great part in the upbuilding of the south, and has certainly filled a great scope of usefulness and given much needed service.

IN THE CRIMINAL COURT. Ten Years of Sentences Were Given

A number of uninteresting, commonplace cases were disposed of yesterday in the criminal superior court. Among them was the case of Tom Hall, the notorious burg-Hall was given eight years and there still a number of indictments against

Will Carroll and Charley Mitchell were given twelve months each for larceny. Bud Jackson was found not guilty on a charge of bugglary. Another lease was disposed of but no sentence was given. It was the case of Will Drury, charged with assault with intent to murder. Drury shot a man named Thomason. The wounded man recovered.

Next week Judge Beck will preside in this court.

C. C. Brown Gave Bond Yesterday on an Old Warrant Against Him

About two years ago a firm named Brown Bros., did a clothing business on Pryor street where the Windsor hotel now is. The firm sold out to a man named Sweet, who is now in New York.

Sweet disposed of the stock at a loss of $300 and immediately swore out a warrant against C. C. Brown, a member of the firm of Brown Bros. Brown had gone west and Sweet then had him indicted and west and Sweet then had him indicted and took out requisition papers. These papers were never served. In the warrant the bond of Brown was put at $2,000.

Brown returned to Atlanta some days ago and was placed under arrest. His bond was reduced and yesterday afternoon he gave it.

AT THE OPERA.

五十分 1

Great improvement was shown in the work of the Campobello company last night over that of the night before and the audience was very enthusiastic indeed. And well it might be. There was none of the delay that characterized the first performance and which seems a necessary part of all premiere productions; all of the artists seemed imbued with greater confidence, now that the first plunge has been made: the chorus proved itself fully adequate and the orchestra was in splendid form.

Had the "Carmen" production been equal in all details to the "Faust" of last night, there would have been nothing but enthusiastic praise in the comments on the

The difference was most noticeable, and where there were criticisms on "Carmen." there was nothing but praise for "Faust." This, too, though Mile Moreska and Montegriffo were not in the cast. The fact that such an excellent production could have been given without the aid of these two principal members, shows the strength of the organization.

The "Faust" was good in every detail. It introduced several new faces and new voices, and each of these made a most pleasant impression. Madame Schultze was a charming Margherita. Her voice was heard to real advantage in the role and the pleasant impression she made as Michaela was greatly increased. Signor Aurich, as Faust, was a pleasant surprise His voice is a true, pure tenor and was excellently used. Mr. Ethan Allen was as good a Mensto as has been heard here in years. Miss Wichmann made a delightful impression as Siebel, and she filled exquisitely the attractive costume that goes with the part as well as the musical requirements. Mr. Hunter Bowie's Valentino was a real triumph. Mr. Bowie's vioce is a full, true and well rounded barytore, which shows the advantage of excellent training. Mr. Reed's Wagner was a well-rounded performance.

It was, taken as a whole and in every detail, a most delightful production, Everybody is talking of Moreska. Her Carmen was indeed a most artistic performance-indeed, she is in many respects, the most thorough artist that Atlanta has seen or heard in many a day. She was the Spanish girl to the life. Personally, she is a charming woman and is one who is sure to prove one of the greatest favorites Atlanta has even known

The Lycenm Opening.

KILLED TWO ITALIANS.

Drunken Desperadoes Slay the Foreigners Without Provocation. Ocala, Fla., April 23.-At Marti City, suburb of this place, last night, Henry Suber shot and killed Leopoldo Rinone and A. E. Odoldo, and his brother Charles dangerously wounded Antonio Taffoletti. Henry and Charles Suber went into Taffoletti's store and ordered something to eat. While waiting for the order to be filled Rinone and Odoldo came in talking in Italian. Not understanding the language, Henry Suber asked if they were "cussing him." They answered, "No," but Suber drew his pistol and began shooting, one bullet striking Rinone near the heart and another striking Odoldo in the forehead, killing him instant-Soloto in the forenead, killing him instant-ly. Taffoletti rushed up and seized Henry Suber's pistol, when Charles Suber shot him in the throat, making a dangerous wound. The Suber brothers then mounted horses and escaped. A posse is in pursuit, Henry Suber is a desperado and has killed several men. He was the husband of Mrs Suber who, with her children, was killed in the railroad wreck on the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia, at Scotland, Ga, about six weeks ago and he recently re-ceived $4,000 from the railroad company as damages. He has been drinking hard since getting his money.

MASH WAS MURDERED

And His Body Thrown Into Ocklock-

Tallahassee, Fla., April 23.—The logging business is quite an industry on the Ock-locknee river, traversing the southwestern portion of this county. One week ago to-day eight men were log driving on that stream and a young man, J. H. Mash, disappeared at a point twenty miles from this city. A negro cook who was on the drive, it appears, unwittingly remarked at a blacksmith shop last Thursday that Mr. Mash was drowned at a certain point in the river on the log drive Monday. This news soon spread throughout the community and many persons assembled at the river and fished up the body of Mash. His neck was broken, one ear cut off and there were other serious wounds on the head. An inquest was held and a number of arrests were made. The coroner's jury returned a verdict to the effect that James Kirkland murdered Mash. The committing trial was begun here today. Only Lit Gray and Kirkland are in custody now.

WORK IS FINISHED.

The Executive Committee of Fire Engineers Adjourned Yesterday.

WHAT THEY THINK ABOUT ATLANTA

A Carriage Drive Was Given Them Yes-terday by Chief Joyner-Talks with Several of the Members.

The executive committee of the International Association of Fire Engineers adjourned yesterday afternoon sine die, and today the members will return to their homes. The weather was beautiful yesterday and the members of the committee were given a carriage ride during the cool of the morning. The waterworks were visited and the fire chiefs were delighted with the engines and the general arrangement. From the waterworks the party went to the exposition grounds. Every member of the party was enthusiastic over the exposition buildings and expressed himself as very glad that the convention date has been so fixed as to give the delegates an opportunity to visit a second world's fair. The committee adjourned on Monday afternoon to meet yesterday, but it was decided to postpone the meeting until the afternoon. The meeting was called at 4 afternoon. The meeting was called at 4 o'clock, but there was no business to be transacted. After a short session, during which nothing of an executive nature was done, the committee adjourned sine die

The members of the committee have a decidedly pleasant visit in Atlanta and are all extravagant in their praises of the city, the exposition, the people, the news-papers and the fire department, which is referred to first of all. Among the visitors present at the deliberations of the executive committee was one of the cleverest New Yorkers that has ever stopped in Atlanta. It is Larry W. Clark, editor and owner of The Fireman's Herald. He is an energetic and thoroughly live business man. Speaking of Atlanta's department and the exposition, he said:
"Atlanta has a much better fire depart. "Atlanta has a much better fire depart ment than many cities that are much larger. It is in capable hands, too. The waterworks cannot be too highly spoken of. I believe that the exposition is going to be a fine success, but there is still a great deal of work to be done. The buildings are well located and the grounds are very picturesque."

The Sentiments of Chief Sloan. Chief M. Sloan, of Mobile, is one of the jolliest of the executive committee. He is enthusiastic over Chief Joyner's depart

"Atlanta is a great city," said Chief Sloan. "We have a great city ourselves and we are hustlers, but Atlanta is on the move. Somehow the improvements seem to come in such bulk. The city has had a wonderful growth in five years.

"Your fire department is something to be proud of. The leadquarters is away ahead of any in the south. The headquarters at Louisville is nearer to it in pof arrangement. But none of it is good for Chief Joyner. Everybody in Atlanta appears to take a pride in the fire department. It is a good good thing, too, for it helps the men and encourages them.

"The Cotton States and International exposition is booming too. I saw the buildings under way this morning. When completed it is going to be a superb fair. I is like Atlanta to do something on this or-der. I believe that the exposition will be opened in time and that everything will be ready. I have a great deal of faith in At-lanta and her people. They are wide awake.

"I must not forget to mention your wa ter system. The engines are very hand-some and powerful. The water plant here is excelled by very few.

Chief Humphries, of Pittsburg.

Chief Humphries, of Pittsburg, expresses himself as very much in love with Atlanta. He believes that our department is ex-celled by none when the size of Atlanta is considered and by very few under any circumstances. He is enthusiastic as to the exposition and spoke of the laying of the corner stone of the woman's building. was designed by Miss Mercur, of Pittsburg. The other members of the committee make in the same vein and are delighted with their trip here.

Dr. Thomas on Hypnotism.

Editor Constitution—There may be such a thing as hypnotism, but I have never seen any manifestations of it. I was at Professor Everett's entertainment. I have been to others like it. I was asked upon the stage to test one of the boys. He fulled to stand the test and I came down. The professor said the boy could not feel pain. Then why did he faint? I have fainted under the same kind of fests. I know I felt pain, but I did not show it, except in falling backwards. The pain I gave the boy was in proportion to the power applied in bending the wrist. I have often performed the same experiment in the hospitals while the patient was under the influence of ether. The wrist will bend very easily and there will be no shock. Neither will there be any pain after the patient awakes. Why was it not so in this case? I offered to test other cases who were supposed to be hypnotized, but they all woke up. I do not blame them.

This subject is of great importance and if I am not correct I would like to know it. If the professor will hypnotize one man (not a boy) who is well known as an honest man (I do not wish to say that the boys were not honest—the reader must judge of that for faimself). I will agree to stand any test which he can, or agree that he is hypnotized. I dere them to try it. This day I have stood the test of a needle, bending the wrist, being cut with a knife, having my fingers bent, and last, but by no means least, that of applying a lighted match to my flesh until it raised a blister. The lookers on said I did not appear to suffer any pain. There was a case recorded in The Literary Digests, last issue, where a man killed another, but was not convicted because he was supposed to be under the hypnotic influence of his employer.

And yet we are told the mind is improved by subjecting it to the mind of one Dr. Thomas on Hypnotism be under the hypnotic influence of his employer.

And yet we are told the mind is improved by subjecting it to the mind of one we do not know.

The Journal of this afternoon, in referring to this subject, left the impression that I did not see Mr. Keeling. I did see him and he said to me: "If my hand did not hurt I would hit you." I told him I was sorry his hand was hurt. I am also told I am wanted and cannot be found. I am at my office and will be pleased to see any one. Very truly. JULIAN P. THOMAS, M. D.

OPENING THE QUARRIES. The Venables Put Men at Work at Lexington.

Athens, Ga., April 23.—(Special.)—The Lexington Blue Granite Company is actively at work developing its magnificent quarries near Lexington, Ga. A few weeks ago Messrs. W. H. Venable and Sam Venable, of Atlanta, bought a controlling interest in these quarries, the stone from which is pronounced to be the finest granite in the state. The work of developing commenced today when sixty hands were put to work clearing the earth off the granite beds. Next Monday 100 additional hands will be put on and the work will proceed rapidly.

The Lexington Terminal railroad has been built around to the quarries and may at an early date be extended to Smithonia to connect with the Georgia, Carolina and Northern at Five Forks, through Colonel J. M. Smith's road.

As soon as this preliminary work is over the machinery will be put in and the quarries will be run full blast.

Moot Courts. The law students at the University of Georgia have commenced holding their moot courts. These are courts where all the characters are fictitious, but the legal practice real. They bring to mind a case of peculiar interest that was tried several years since. Hon. Andrew J. Cobb, of Atlanta, was then professor of law here and presided in a moot case in which a negro was alleged to have committed murder.

The jury convicted the defendant and he was sentenced to be hanged. Judge E. C. Kontz was his attorney and just before the negro was to be executed, tried to get a supercedeas pending a motion for a new trial. Professor Cobb was in Lawrence-ville and Mr. Cobb telegraphed him. The answer came too late for the sheriff, Mr Tom Cobb, had already hanged the negro A new trial was granted, the negro was revived, stood his second trial and was acquitted.

The law students will try a breach of promise suit soon. These moot courts are of great value to the students.

Mr. Coleman Buried. Mr. Andrew Coleman was buried this af ternoon in Oconee cemetery. The services were conducted by Father Basil, of Atlanta, and the remains were accompanied to the grave by a large concourse of friends. Mrs. A. H. Hodgson, Mrs. John R. White and Miss Julie Hodgson are visiting in New York for a few days. Mrs. Neal, of Bairdstown, is visiting relatives here.

Judge Hamilton McWhorter, of Lexington, is in the city.

Mrs. A. D. Harper, of Elberton, is visiting Mrs. S. P. Thurmond. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ingersoll Wade, of Washington, D. C., are visiting Dr. and Mrs. R. M. Wade, of this city.

The "Robin Hood" opera has been post-poned until the middle of July. The Cotillon Club gives a delightful germen Thursday evening complimentary to visiting young ladies. It will be led by Mr. John W. Welch with Miss Nellie Wright, of Atlanta.

THE STARRY FLAG.

The Little Rebel Finally Consented To Kiss It and Won a Husband.

From The Baltimore News. Messrs. Oehm & Co. have just completed a fine silk flag on a special order, to which is attached a pretty romance.

A few years ago after the close of the var, a young man living in a suburb of Boston, Mass., conveyed his invalid sister to a hotel at Old Point Comfort, hoping the genial climate would aid in the resto ration of her health. The orphan children and only heirs of a wealthy leather magnate with interests in the great tannerie at Salem and leather houses in Boston, they had abundant means to entertain in lavish style, and soon were the center of a select circle at the noted resort. Anong the most intimate friends they won by their hospitality was a Maryland girl of much grace and beauty, who was the season's belle at Old Point. The young New Englander courted her assiduously, but as she boasted that she was "a little rebel and "would never wed a yankee," he post-ported the "popping of the question." How ever, before parting he frankly told he: that she had stolen his heart and he would never wed another.

"If you can ever kiss the starry flag,"

were his parting words to her, "I will fly to you from any part of the world." "I never can," was retorted with laughter. Years passed away. The young man's sister kept in correspondence with the charming Marylander, and finally came the news that she was married He plunged literature, the resort of Bostonians traveled on the continent; went around the world, a restless wanderer, never forgetting his vow "to marry no other than she," He haunted Old Point season after season hoping to catch a glimpse of the eyes that had fascinated him, and a year ago heard that she was a widow, childless and pen-niless. Through his invalid sister he conveyed to her, after the lapse of several months, a message that brought to him a few days ago this reply, while he was in Baltimore on his way home:

"I will kiss the starry flag." Immediately he ordered an elaborate flag made—"one worthy to be kissed by a queen"—and hastened to an old mansion near Washington where the young widow was

"Hold it until I wire for it," was his "Hold it until I wire for it," was his order.

The flag is now on exhibition, gracefully draped in one of the Baltimore street windows, and it is expected that in a short time the romance will culminate in a nuptial event that will occur under its folds, as the following dispatch is pasted on the glass in front of the flag:
"Washington, D. C., March 28, 1895.—Send flag April 15th. E. C. HARRINGTON."

The flag is of the heaviest silk, one of its characteristics being that the stars and stripes are woven into it instead of being sewn in, the usual way.

CHI PSI CONVENTION

The Deliberations of the Fraternity Body Will Occur at the Kimball.

BANQUET FOR THURSDAY NIGHT

Several of the Delegates Reached the City Yesterday-A Box Party Will Be Given Tonight.

The Chi Psi's are beginning to arrive in the city, and by noon today they will be counted in scores.

The Kimball house is the headquarters selected and the dining room has been decorated in the handsome colors of that popular fraternity. For three days the Chi Psi's will have been prepared by the committee on entertainment. There will be a meeting today and the preliminaries of the other sessions will be arranged. It is possible that some of the members may be delayed and not reach here until tonight, and for that reason the possession of the city and in that time will banquet will not occur until tomorrow night. Tonight the Chi Psi's will attend the opera and will occupy boxes. The members will all go in full dress. On Thursday the delegates will be given a carriage drive around the city and out to the exposition grounds. The banquet tomorrow night will be an elegant spread. Manager Porter, of the Kimball, who is a host par excellence in all matters pertaining to his hostelry, will put an extra touch upon this latest effort. The menu cards are to be thorough in every detail and the workmanship is said to be superb. The Chi Psi fraternity is one of the most select of all the Greek letter fraternitie and has among its members some of the best business men and most prominent in the country. The annual meeting is something that is looked forward to every year with increasing interest. The brother-hood of college times is revived and a veritable rejuvenation takes place among the members.

There was a jolly reunion on a small scale last night. A dozen or more members arrived during the afternoon and later in the evening and there was a happy-hearted gathering last night. Good Chi Psi jokes were told and an enjoyable evening was spent. Several of the arrivals were once college mates and their past friendship was renewed in the midst of genial jollifications.

Among those now registered at the Kimball are the following named Chi Psi's: G. E. Haynesworth, South Carolina college; D. D. McCall, Jr., South Carolina col-lege; W. F. Stackhouse, Hofford college; Hugh C. Haynesworth, Freeman university; George D. Cornish, New Brunswick, N. J.; James W. Hamilton, Ithaca, N. Y.; Alfred Worstall, Bethlehem, Pa.; Orlando E. Ferry, Clinton, N. Y.

TEXAS NEEDS A GREAT DEAL MORE RAIN

The Position in Wheat Was Reversed Yesterday, the Bears Having Control. Stocks Active and Higher.

New York, April 23.—On transactions of 301,703 shares the usually active stocks closed with net gains ranging from 14 to 1½ per cent. There were heavy realiza-tions throughout the day, but the stocks offered were readily absorbed and in the main speculation closed strong and confident. London really set the pace, the foreigners having taken fully 30,000 shares pecording to arbitrage brokers. Local bears who professed to be disappointed at the failure of the presidents of the Anthracite Coal companies to arrive at an agreement in the matter of percentages endeavored to bring about a reaction, but the decline was insignificant. Jersey Central ran off to 35% and Delaware and Hudson to 123%, while Reading and Lackawanna refused to sympathize. In the afternoon the old stories of a settlement of the difficulties of the companies were redifficulties of the companies were re-vived and the stocks, notably Reading, responded. Reading touched 15% and the junior bonds on large trading moved up 1/4 to 2 per cent, the latter in the first preferences. In the late trading the Grangers were particularly prominent, St. Paul rising to 62%, Northwest to 83%, Burlington and Quincy to 74% and Rock Island to 67%. Among the low-priced issues Long Island traction recovered to 11% on reports of a change in the directory. Rumor had it that prominent New York capitalists were to be represented in the directory in the early future. Chicago Gas among the Industrials was feverish, the recent rise having induced realizations. Speculation closed strong with the active issues anywhere from 1/4 to 11/2 per cent higher on

Some very well informed brokers believe an agreement has been reached in regard to coal percentages, but that an announcement will be delayed some little time.

Some of the buying of Reading Monday is said to have been on a knowledge of this. The coal officials do not credit this, but admit the Reading interests have been acting as though they felt certain of holding a winning hand.

The sudden development of aggressive strength in Chicago Gas Monday was char-acteristic of that stock, but close observers call attention to the unusual stability which the stock has shown since it underwent a change of management. Less anxiety is now felt with regard to the influence of advance in crude oil on the cost of gas manufactured by this company since the street has been reminded that cost of gas manufactured by this company since the street has been reminded that much of the new capital which has gone into the property has extremely close relations with the corporations controlling the principal port of supply of low grade oil.

The public agitation in Chicago against "boodle" ordinances, which the old board of aldermen directed against Chicago Gas, and the prompt action of the new board in repudiating the Ogden gas franchise have encouraged friends of the stock to hope that ultimately a favorable change may Stevens & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

Sievens & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

By Private Wire to J. C. Knox, Manager.

New York, April 23.—Although there were pretty heavy rains in some parts of Texas, prices here advanced 10 to 12 points early in the day on account of a rise of 4½ points in Liverpool and heavy buying by the continent and considerable covering by local account. Still later pressure of selling orders proved too great, and the early advance was obliterated, and at one time the market was 1 point lower than at the close last night. Afterwards, however, there was, a rise of 6 to 7 points due to local covering. Some scuthern buying, and also some renewal of European purchases. It was reported that Neill Bros. & Co. will soon is sue a bullish circular, and this had considerable effect on the market here this evening. Bulls claim that the rainfall in Texas is insufficient; that for many months past precipitation has been much below the normal rate, and that considerably more rain is therefore needed. Prominent bulls gave the market support here by bidding for large 5,000 bale blacks of May, and also by buying August, though some leading bullish interests are understood to have sold June freely. The receipts at the ports and also at Houston were pretty liberal. Still the market here closed firm with sales for the day of 25,500 bales. The Liverpool spot sales were 12,000 bales at an advance of 1-16d.

Weatherford, Tex., had a rainfall yesterday of 2 inches, and at numerous other points in Texas the precipitation was heavy according to government report. New Orleans advanced 8 to 9 points, but reacted quite sharply later on. In Manchester yarns were quiet and firm; cloths in moderate demand. Spot cotton here was quiet and unchanged. With sales 30 for spinning and 200 delivered on contract. The southern spot markets were generally steady to firm and unchanged. Riordan & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

Riordan & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

New York, April 21.—(Special.)—The transactions in cotton today were enormous and the fluctuations were quick and lively. Liverpool came sharply higher and our opening was at an advance of about nine points. August opened at 6.91, declined to 6.81 and in the last hour quickly recovered most of the loss, closing firm at 6.87@6.88. The leading bulls seem to be in complete control. At every good rise they take their profits, selling heavily enough to break the market, and upon the declines they buy to replace their holdings, the boldness and magnitude of their operations causing a prompt advance. The strength of cotton is in a large degree due to the widespread and growing belief that it is safe to buy, that declines will turn out only to be temporary reactions and that prices are almost certain to be higher later on. We think that this impression, so prevalent just now among traders, is likely to prove well founded.

The Sun's Cotton Review.

Closing Stock Review.

New York, April 23.—New York 'News Bureau by private wire to J. C. Knox, manager—The stock market was strong today with only natural fluctuations due to taking of profits.

London was a buyer, and the demand from commission houses increased. The Coalers were depressed 1 per cent in early dealings by the failure of the anthracite conference yesterday to reach a definite conclusion.

The Grangers were strong under the lead of Northwest and St. Paul, which gained 1 per cent and over.

Cleveland, Chicago, Cincinnati and St. Louis rose nearly 1 per cent and Manhattan was more than 1 per cent higher.

In the Industrial group Sugar was eratic, but finally established a gain of a substantial fraction.

Chicago Gas was strong, but only a triffe higher.

The market closed active and higher.

In the evening rumors that a settlement was near at hand carried Reading up 1 deal more rain, and needs it soen. The precipitation the last six months has been much smaller than during the same period of the previous cotton year, and this is a very important factor in the speculation, for it was the enormous rainfall in Texas last season which swelled the present crop to dimensions unheard of before in cotton's history. Today, contrary to expectation, Liverpool advanced materially, and Europe bought heavily. Liverpool bought the Lear and sold the distant months, but the continent was a buyer of the general list. Local, southern and outside operators were again buyers. Large bull houses here have made purchases and bid freely for May at a premium of 12 points over June. Many of the shorts covered, The south was firm. A rumor from New Orleans that Neili Bros. will issue a bullish circular in regard to the crop prospects in Texas had a stimulating effect upon the market this afternoon. There was considerable realizing today by bulls, big and little, but the cotton was readily absorbed and the tone at the close was firm.

Hubbard Bros. & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

New York, April 23.—Summary Hubbard Bros. & Co.'s daily cotton letter: The opening of the market this morning showed the presence of buying orders from the continent, but the liquidation of a large supply of cotton by those who have recently been identified with the bull side caused the market to decline within 2to 3 points of last evening, although at one time it was 10 to 12 points above the quotations then ruling. The active market in Liverpool was caused by large orders to buy cotton from the continent, from London and from Glasgow, based on the idea that the market would advance still further as a result of improving business in Europe. The feeling here continues to be very bullish, but it is noticeable that the market has been loaded with cotton during the past week at about these prices, and the recent rains in Texas will go far toward enabling the Texas farmer to plant a large crop of cotton. Just before the close of the market there was a report received from New Orleans that Mr. Nelli would issue a bullish circular tomorrow on cotton, and as the advice received early in the afternoon was that he would issue a bearish circular the market quickly advanced, closing firm at 2 points advance from last evening. Hubbard Bros. & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Chicago, April 23.—The course of the wheat market was reversed today and shorts were on a more comfortable footing than at any time within the past ten days. The action of the market today denoted that if the boom had not entirely subsided there was at least to be a temporary breathing spell. The first quotation this morning ranged from 1½ to 1c under the last ones of yesterday. Much of the long wheat purchased just before the close went overboard at the start today and the feeling was decidedly irresolute. The business was noted for its moderation up until noon, when the report the close went overboard at the start to-day and the feeling was decidedly irresolute. The business was noted for its moderation up until noon, when the report of a decrease of 2,338,00 bushels in the world's visible supply by Bradstreet's revived activity at the selling sife, showing a growth in its favor. Temporary firmness during the session resulted from the manipulation of the May option in St. Louis, that delivery showing a premium over their own July and over May at Chicago of from 1 to 2c. July wheat opened from 61½ to 6ic, sold down between 62 and 60%c, closing at 60%c with a net loss of 1½ (1%c for the day. Cash wheat was about le lower than yesterday.

Corn lost its gain of yesterday through the weakness of wheat. Most of the property bought at and around yesterday's close came out at the opening, some of it being for country accounts, but local scalpers and traders suffering the most. All through the session the tone was governed by wheat, little interest in anything else being displayed. July corn opened from 48% to 48c, sold between 48% and 47%c, closing at 47%c/47%c, 1@1%c under yesterday. Cash corn was 46%c per bushelower.

day. Cash corn was 46%c per bushel lower.
Oats were deprived of their late appreciation through the sympathy existing between them and the other grains. There was no important development in the trade and practically steady values were maintained by reason of the duliness. July closed 46%c lower than yesterday. Cash oats were steady.
Provisions—An' old experienced trader stated that they had been trading in wheat in the product market all day. As a matter of fact the fluctuations of the grain mentioned ruled the sentiment throughout, although the effect produced by a weaker hog market was local and of light proportions. The close was 5c under vesterday for July pork and 567%c under that day each for July lard and July ribs.

just as soon as this weakness became apparent and the bears met with little opposition in breaking price, there being practically no outside support. The recent advance has probably been too rapid, everything considered, and it now looks as if we would have to get good outside support to sustain prices, in views of the fact that a large percentage of the short interest has been eliminated.

Corn at the opening shared the heaviness of wheat, in fact, at no time during the entire session did it show a rallying tendency. The late strength has been almost wholly sympathetic with that of wheat, which has caused liberal short covering. As the cash demand is still poor and the weather conditions very satisfactory there is very little of a sustaining character in the situation.

Provisions have been duit and inactive the entire session. Nothing of special interest to say.

Wheat 5 1-2c Higher in St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., April 23.—Not in several years has the floor of the merchants' exchange been filled with such a howling mob of traders as yelled and struggled around the wheat pit today. Indications point to a big corner in May wheat. There is tremendous excitement among the shorts, who are badly frightened for fear of being squeezed. May wheat in St. Louis has been 3 cents below May wheat in rchicago. The normal difference between the price of wheat in St. Louis and Chicago is about 3 cents. Today May wheat in St. Louis ran up to 2½ cents above May wheat in Chicago, an advance of 5½ cents in twenty-four hours. There was wild excitement before 10 o'clock, when the market went 1½ cents above Chicago, but at noon, when it jumped another ½ cent and shortly afterwards a full cent, sending it 2½ cents above Chicago, there was consternation among the shorts and a panicky feeling was noticeable among them. The market closed firm. There are half a dozen rumors current as to the cause of the present flurry. One is that Kansas City parties are behind it. Another is that a capitalist in Paducah, Ky., has run a corner. A third and more generally credited rumor is that the United Elevator Company is behind it. Wheat 5 1-2c Higher in St. Louis.

The Flour Market.

The Flour Market.

From The Wall Street Journal.

The trade in flour has been active the past week with prices steadily advancing with the rise in wheat. The big trade began on Monday and has continued right through, with sales ranging from 50,000 to 65,000 barrels a day. The prices have been marked right up on most grades, the rise keeping pace with the advance in wheat. Jobbers have been unwilling buyers at the advance but have taken large quantities notwithstanding this fact. There has been an excellent demand for export in low grade springs, spring patents and winter straights and export limits have been quite steadily raised. The activity in spring patents has been somewhat surprising in view of the recent dullness, but is taken to indicate that buyers were short of supplies and have been compelled to stock up. The offers of winter wheat flour continue scarce and the advices from the mills are on the same lines as hitherto, that wheat was extremely difficult to get, excepting at relatively higher prices than at the shipping point. Feed-Market quiet and rather heavy for western, notwithstanding the improvement in flour and about steady for city.

The stocks of flour at Duluth on April 13th were 225,000 barrels, sgainst 288,000 barrels for the corresponding time last year.

The provision chamber of the Alaska never coats from condensation, but is always clean and free from foul odor. Every nook and cranny can easily be reached with damp rag and brush, insuring absolute cleanliness. Years' testing shows the Alaska to be the best Retrigerator, and the most economical in the consumption of ice.

TO PREVENT CRUELTY

The National Humane Society Will Have a Splendid Exhibit.

TWO HUNDRED SQUARE FEET ENGAGED

They Will Illustrate How Animals Are Treated Cruelly in America and How the Brutal Practice Should Cease.

The Atlanta Humane Society, through Captain Joseph F. Burke, president, and the American Humane Association, through Mr. William Hosea Ballou, of New York, vice president, have arranged for an exhibit at the exposition of the societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals and children of the United States and Canada. Two hundred and twenty-five square feet of space have been allotted in the liberal arts building, for the present, with an option for more area if desired.

The following committee of management is announced: Joseph F. Burke, Atlanta, chairman; John G. Shortall, Chicago, president of the American Humane Association and of the Illinois Humane Society; William Hosea Ballou, secretary and treasurer of the Westchester Free hospital, New York; Dr. Albert Leffingwell, Summit, N. J., and Miss Sarah J. Eddy, Providence, R. I., vice presidents of the American Humane Association; Martin V. B Davis, secretary of the Pennsylvania So ciety for the Prevention of Cruelty to Ani-mals; Dr. George T. Angell, president of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and the American Humane Education Society, Boston, and H. S. Sait, secretary of the Humanitarian League of England, London.

The following names have been announced to date as an honorary committee:
Hon. Thomas W. Palmer, Detroit; Ferdinand W. Peck, Chicago; Robert W. Ryerss, Philadelphia; General James Barnett, Cleveland; Elbridge T. Gerry, New York; Charles Sonntag, San Francisco; Caleb S. Cleveland; Elbridge T. Gerry, New York; Charles Sonntag, San Francisco; Caleb S. Denny, Indianapolis; Miss E. P. Hall, Rochester, N. Y.; J. J. Kelso, Toronto; Charles R. Fraser, Canton, O.; L. C. Dullam, Henderson, Ky.; Miss Adele Biddle, Philadelphia; Henry R. Jonès, Brooklyn; Mrs. W. H. Bradley, Milwaukee; Walter S. Cheesman, Denver; Dr. E. V. Stoddart, Rochester, N. Y.; John H. Leathers, Louisville; Mrs. H. L. Walcott, Dedham, Mass.; Hon. Rufus Dane, Mobile; H. B. Williams, Bristol, Vt.; Rodney Dennis, Hartford, Conn.; John Day Smith, Minneapolis; Rev. Alfred E. Clay, New Orleans; Richard F. Reed, Natchez; Mrs. F. M. Schaffter, New Orleans; Miss M. Dusenberry, Sing Sing; A. S. Pratt, Wasnington; George W. Parker, Baltimore; D. R. Noyes, Et. Paul; Colonel E. A. Rockwood, Buffalo; General R. Brinkerhoff, Mansfield, O.; Rev. J. H. Dennis, Rochester, N. V. V. V. V. Revented St. Paul; Colonel R. Rochester, M. V. V. V. Revented Mansfield, O.; Rev. J. H. Dennis, Rochester, N. Y.; Margaret/Sunderland Cooper, Salem, N. H.; Dr. W. R. Elder, Terre Haute, Ind.; Louis Ichenhauser, Evansville, Ind; Dr. James H. Latcher, Henderson, Ky.; John F. Burke, Milwaukee; Dr. D. C. Kelly, Nashville; Theodore F. Gatchell. Des Majnes: John F. Andrew. B. C. Kelly, Mashville, Theodore F. Gatchell, Des Moines; John F. Andrew, Boston; Julia Langdon Barber, Washington; Miss S. K. Davidson, Philadelphia; Rev. Thomas C. Hall, Chicago; Charles Alexander, Montreal; Hon. James M. Brown, Tolede; J. C. Knoblock, South Bend, Ind.; Erancis B. Hill, Colorad, Springs; Hon. Francis B. Hill, Colorado Springs; Hon. George Wilson, Pittsburg; Mrs. C. M. Fairt-hild-Allen, Aurora, all vice presidents of the American Humane Association and officers of local state societies.

Mr. W. H. Ballou, prominent in such work, is at the Aragon. He said yester

The humane exhibit will comprise models of modern steamships and sail vessels engaged in the exportation and importation of cattle and blooded horses; models of cars for animals in transit; instruments and implements of torture, by which crueity is practiced; ambulances and appli-ances for the care of maimed animals; humane literature, paintings and photographs of prominent humanitarians, etc. "There are some 200 societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals and children and Canadá, with a membership of a million or more of the very best and most distinguished citizens of communities. The humane movement is very powerful and far-reaching in the north and in most civilized nations. It is confidently expected that the exhibit will arouse such an interest in the southeast that there will result nany needed strong societies in the several southeastern states.

"The humane societies of the country feel greatly indebted to Captain J. F. Burke for preserving the organization and charter of the Atlanta Humane Society during the hard times of the past several years.

"It is gratifying to know that he has been able to continue prosecutions of those who cruelly treat animals, and bring them to punishment. Southern men are proverbially fond of their domestic animals, and I am sure, when the matters gets properly be-fore them, they will insist on building up a strong society in this state for the care of children from vice and the punishment of those who misuse animals.

"He will ask the ladies of Atlanta to co-operate with him and appoint a committee of fifty or a hundred to alternate in the care of the exhibit. I have no doubt that the Christian women of Atlanta will take a delight in such work and in founding a proper sentiment. The tender care of the helpless and unspeaking animal comes before that of children in Biblical literature, and if it were not so it would be impossible to reconcile brutality and manhood. We will next arrange for a humanhood. We will next arrange for a humane congress here, with delegates from all the world. The humane congress at Chicago was one of the most successful held there."

Mr. Ballou conducted the movement for the suppression of cruelty to animals at sea, fully described in former issues of The Constitution, by which the annual loss of animals by cruelty between New York and Liverpool in 1890 of $3,500,000 was reduced to less than $30,000 last year. He raided and riddled the dens of vice of all children at Coney island several years ago. He has given much attention to the preservation of animals on national domain, their care from starvation and destruction in winter and has recently taken up poaching in the Yellowstone National park. He is now working to secure a great zoological garden for the city of New York to avert crueity under the present conditions of the meragorie in Central park.

Several years ago he prosecuted one of the great trans-Atlantic steamship lines for cruelty to animals at sea, resulting in a complete and radical change in the construction of vessels engaged in the carryling trade.
